Fishermen Protest

Signs of Split In Strike

Sellers Defy Board

VANCOUVER (CP)—Striking B.C. fishermen said Wednesday they will defy a National Fisheries Board order not to sell fish on two federal government wharves.

"To stop us they'll have to get court orders and evict us," said Homer Stevens, secretary-treasurer of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union.

Warrant Disturbs Fish Sale

NANAIMO—A booming fish sale in aid of striking fishermen was interrupted here Thursday morning when Harbor Commissioner John Dunham, flanked by RCMP officers, served the sale organizer with a warrant.

The warrant served on Bill MacDonald comes under harbor commission bylaws stating that no goods or merchandise can be sold upon the harbor properties without the consent of the commissioners.

The sale was being carried out on Fisherman's Wharf and Mr. Dunham indicated that because permission had not been sought prior to the sale it would certainly not be granted.

BOOST FUNDS

The sale was staged in an effort to boost funds for striking members of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union.

Eager buyers crowded the docks as the sale got underway. Shortly after 10 a.m. more than half the stock had been sold.

The sale is scheduled to continue this morning and Mr. MacDonald will appear in court at 9:30 a.m.

● The sensational Ward trial in London has captured world headlines, but the issues of the trial itself are commonplace. The trial is a sideshow to the main drama—the Profumo scandal. On Page 3 today, Cassandra gives some idea of the ramifications and reverberations of the Profumo affair which, he says, are without parallel in British history. Convicts Shoot Way Out

CARACAS (AP)—Leftist guerrillas and common convicts shot their way out of a Caracas prison Thursday in a chain of violence that spread terror through the Venezuelan capital.

Unofficial reports said at least four persons were killed and more than 50 wounded. One hundred prisoners were reported to have fled, of whom 16 were recaptured.

Rioting at the main meal, hundreds of the 600 prisoners ran through the penitentiary, opening cells of comrades and overpowering guards, officials reported.

The mob stripped 40 guards of their uniforms, then poured through a hole in the wall.

The Big Three Pledge

'No Tests—for All Time'

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Big Three partial nuclear test ban treaty pledges continued negotiations to discontinue "all tests . . . for all time."

The five-article treaty, which diplomatic observers here labelled a "basically simple document," contained what appeared to be an "escape clause" permitting resumption of tests by signatory powers if nuclear tests by nations not participating threaten their security. It also contained an atomic anti-proliferation clause.

The treaty also made these points:

- That the signatories desired to end radioactive contamination of the environment.
- That the signatories had as their "principal" aim speeding disarmament under strict international control.
- That the treaty should not "pre-judge" conclusion of a full treaty, including the banning of underground explosions.

cluding the banning of underground explosions.

- That the parties refrain from encouraging, causing or participating in any nuclear explosions anywhere.
- The treaty shall be of unlimited duration.
- The treaty should be registered pursuant to Article 102 of the UN Charter.
- The treaty shall be open to all states.

We'll Sign Now—Pearson

FRENCH TEST BAN MARTIN GOAL

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday Canada is ready now to sign the East-West nuclear test ban and highly-placed informants said External Affairs Minister Martin may try to get France to sign, too.

France has boycotted the 18-nation disarmament talks in Geneva.

Mr. Martin, who speaks French, held private talks here with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville during the May NATO ministerial meeting. In a speech in Quebec City last month he hinted that Canada would be willing to act as a mediator between France and the United States as it had sometimes between Britain and the U.S. The hint raised considerable interest in the French foreign office.

DO SOMETHING

During a Commons all-party welcome for the test ban initiated in Moscow Thursday, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Canada should be able to do something to bring France into the agreement. Mr. Diefenbaker said he feels Mr. Martin could do a great deal in this regard through talks with President de Gaulle.

Mr. Pearson said the test ban agreement will remove a major source of harmful radiation and that it holds out the prospect for further improvement in East-West relations.

FIRST STEP

However, the agreement was "no more than a first step." Underground nuclear tests still had to be included and it was imperative that the agreement receive world-wide support to make it effective.

The agreement was "only one small segment" of the problems involved in working out general disarmament, which would require prolonged and patient effort.

GREAT PROSPECTS

"Significant changes in the thinking of the Soviet leaders, of which there are signs, could hold out still greater prospects for a far-reaching East-West settlement," Mr. Pearson said.

But it would be naive and "even dangerous" to hold illusions that all barriers to a genuine detente were down.

Canada would use its influence to the utmost to help press for negotiations aimed at a broader international understanding.

Macmillan Cheered

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, last night received a standing ovation from both Laborites and Conservatives for his role in the partial nuclear test ban treaty.

It was a tremendous political boost for Macmillan whose government was shaken badly by the scandal involving his war minister with playgirl Christine Keeler.

Japan Happy

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan, the only nation ever to suffer an atomic attack, Wednesday welcomed agreement on a partial nuclear test ban in Moscow.

The foreign office said the agreement "is for Japan, which has long advocated an early agreement for banning nuclear tests, a very auspicious event. We wish to pay our respects to the three (signatory) nations for their great efforts."

'Cut the Gordian Knot' Diefenbaker Demands

New Target In Talks On Columbia

OTTAWA (CP)—The new target for starting Columbia River talks with the United States is perhaps the middle of next week. External Affairs Minister Paul Martin informed the Commons Wednesday.

He said the Canadian and British Columbia governments have just concluded another "satisfactory" meeting.

He did not spell out details but apparently the two governments discussed changes to be sought in the 60-year hydro and flood-control treaty signed with the U.S. but yet to be ratified by this country. Earlier, they signed an agreement between themselves.

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker demanded Thursday that the government "cut the Gordian knot" and drop the budget's controversial sales tax on building materials and production machinery.

But he told the Commons he doesn't mean Finance Minister Gordon should be fired "because I don't know what we'd do without the mistakes he has made."

Leading off the third day of opposition attack on the tax announced in the June 13 budget, Mr. Diefenbaker said his Progressive Conservatives intend to continue talking about it and to vote against it.

The Conservatives would propose a menendments to the budget's sales tax legislation and force a vote on the bill itself.

"I again ask the government to take one more look at this and remove it from the list of resolutions," said Mr. Diefenbaker in a blistering attack. Mr. Gordon, terming it a

"quiet and tolerant speech," said it showed that Mr. Diefenbaker's "well-known talents for Continued on Page 2

Water Does Trick

CHITTENANGO, N.Y. (AP)—Paul Demario was annoyed by the disappearance of gasoline from the 250-gallon tank on his farm near here so he filled it with water.

Early Thursday Demario saw a car stalled 150 yards from the tank.

Police arrested Hadila Wallis, 18, of Chittenango, and charged him with petty larceny after they said they found 15 gallons of water in the car's gas tank.

After Next Week Who Will Own the BCE?

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Who will own the B.C. Electric after next week?

That is the $17,532,052 question which is keeping B.C. cabinet ministers awake nights.

It is a question which weighed heavily in Premier Bennett's decision not to go to Ottawa for a federal-provincial conference this week.

It is also a question which has capped some of the urgency to launch new high-level B.C.-Washington negotiations over Columbia River power sales to the U.S.

Premier Bennett doesn't want to be very far away from the fold when the answer is supplied.

The anxiously-awaited judgment on B.C. Electric expropriation reposes with Chief Justice Shawwood Lett of B.C.'s Supreme Court.

What decisions he has reached as a result of the marathon proceedings over which he presided from May 1, 1962, to Feb.

25, 1963 are known only to him and his personal staff.

But because of his elevation to the post of Chief Justice of British Columbia, effective Aug. 1, he has only six days of grace before he must hand down his judgment—after that, so the official thinking goes, he loses Supreme Court jurisdiction.

His judgment will stem from a case which many believe was the most complex of any in the history of Canadian law and one of the costliest.

Unofficial estimates place the cost of the case so far at nearly $1,000,000.

Official transcript of the proceedings fills 146 volumes containing 4,500,000 words. Continued on Page 2

Medicare Plan Pays Bills for 510,000

REGINA (CP)—About 510,000 Saskatchewan residents had medical expenses in the first six months of this year which were covered under the province's comprehensive compulsory medical care insurance scheme.

The Medical Care Insurance Commission, which administers the tax-supported plan, put into operation July 1, 1962, said in a six-month report Thursday that the 510,000 residents received $10,508,000 in benefits from the medical care plan.

Saskatchewan's total population is about 930,000.

The report said 2,000,000 individual medical services were rendered to beneficiaries of the plan in the first six months of this year.

Of the province's 930,000 residents, 885,000 were covered under the medical care plan in the first six months of 1963. All but 10,000 of the remainder were insured for medical services under other provincial or federal schemes such as those covering Indians on reserves.

The 10,000 apparently uninsured—MCIC said the figure could not be pinned down with any great accuracy—presumably include persons who have been in the province less than three months and are not eligible for Medical Care Insurance and people who have not paid their medical care head tax.

Railroads To Delay Work Rules

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. railways agreed Thursday to put off for 30 days the posting of new manpower-trimming work rules. This averts a threatened country-wide strike next Tuesday.

Daniel P. Loomis, president of the Association of American Railroads, announced the decision at a House of Representatives commerce committee meeting.

CHANGES DELAYED

Loomis said the 195 carriers involved in the explosive work rules dispute would not impose the changes until 12:01 a.m., Aug. 29.

Loomis said the railroads were taking this step in order to co-operate with Congress, which is considering President Kennedy's plan to turn the work-rules controversy over to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Mrs. Diefenbaker, shopping downtown, was pulling away from the curb when her foot slipped off the brake onto the accelerator. Her car jumped the curb, struck a parking sign and crashed through a plate-glass store window.

Deportations Reviewed

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Guy Favreau is reconsidering a number of controversial deportation cases including that of 36-year-old Irene Rebrin, Slavonic lecturer at the University of B.C.

This is a normal procedure after a change of government to enable the new minister to become acquainted with each case and to determine whether the deportation order should remain undisturbed.

Mrs. Rebrin, born in China of White Russian parents, was ordered deported Jan. 22, 1959, on grounds she was a member of a class of persons prohibited entry to Canada as landed immigrants. Later she was described in the Commons as a security risk.

An immigration department official said the Rebrin case is among a number which have been placed before Mr. Favreau.

"The cases are placed before the minister without any kind of recommendation by department officials," the spokesman said. "No decisions have been

16 'Rats' on Raft Ride Hell's Gate

CHINA BAR, B.C. (CP) — George White, her river rats and a newspaper reporter shot through terrifying Hell's Gate by raft Thursday and emerged without a scratch.

It preserved fabulous George's 18-year record of exploring the continent's toughest rivers without losing a member of her famed rats.

And it gave John Andrews, adventurous reporter for a Vancouver newspaper, the last close look he wants at the swirling neck of rapids deep in the Fraser River canyon, 130 miles northeast of Vancouver.

George tends to real estate sales at Rodondo Beach, Calif., during the winter and assembles her crew each summer. Two members are women over 70.

All 16 in the group, plus a mascot dog, wore life jackets aboard three 30-foot life rafts. Andrews described it this way:

"The rafts, lashed together with nylon rope, first slipped into the centre of the gale — then with a vicious swirl were tossed almost against the right bank."

"But a 30-foot whirlpool in the centre of the stream sucked the raft back into the main current and with a toss pitched it stern-first downstream."

"And that was the end of Hell's Gate."

"It took us in its teeth, shook us a little, and then, as though it were disgusted, threw us away."

Objectors Legalized In France

PARIS (AP)—The French National Assembly passed a bill Thursday giving legal status to conscientious objectors—but also requiring twice the normal service period in non-violent duty. Conscientious objectors have been treated in France as criminals and imprisoned for terms roughly equal to compulsory military service time.

More Pay Proposed For MPs

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday the government plans to introduce a bill Friday to increase pay and pensions for members of Parliament.

He gave no indication on amount of the increase. MPs and senators now receive a total of $10,000 a year apiece. The announcement was greeted with loud, desk-thumping applause except along the front row of the official Opposition benches.

BY NEXT WEEK

Mr. Pearson said that provided the four parties in the Commons are agreed, the plan is to get the pay-increase bill and several other legislative items through Parliament by next week. Parliament could then adjourn for a summer holiday, resuming Monday, Sept. 30.

Speculation on the increase has been that it would raise pay to as high as $17,500 a year. MPs now get a taxable indemnity of $6,000 plus $2,000 tax-free expenses. Senators receive $10,000, all taxable.

Odd Man Out

PRESIDENT DE GAULLE is apparently determined to make France odd man out in the Western world.

Already at loggerheads with Britain through his rejection of the United Kingdom's application for membership in the European Economic Community, and with the United States through his refusal to allow American nuclear weapons on French soil, the president has now vetoed a NATO proposal to set up a strategic planning committee.

What General de Gaulle hopes to accomplish by such continued obstructionism is difficult to perceive. Certainly, he has already made his point and had it accepted, albeit reluctantly, by the Western allies that France's independence of action either militarily or economically must remain paramount.

By turning his back on the suggestion that NATO establish a special planning group to map out the alliance's long term strategy, de Gaulle may well have overplayed his hand.

It is no secret that the European NATO partners are rapidly losing patience with de Gaulle and his Napoleonic complex and are beginning to regard France as the weakest link in the Western defence chain.

Much the same attitude toward him prevails among the members of the EEC who readily admit to their views that the French president is simply using the economic union to strengthen his claim to the leadership of free Europe.

Just how far the Western leaders will allow him to go his own way remains to be seen. If it is considered that his latest stand constitutes a threat to the general security of the West, President de Gaulle may have reached the end of his road.

Misplaced Humor

THE COMMONS is said to have roared with laughter as a Liberal member asked if funds from the National Gallery would be used to purchase the portrait of Mr. Diefenbaker done by Dr. Stephen Ward, the central figure in an unsavory trial presently before the British courts.

It was a joke, but one in poor taste.

This was the portrait commissioned by the Illustrated London News as one of a series of Commonwealth prime ministers during their last conference in London, for normal magazine display, at a time when the other activities of this osteopath-artist were unknown. It was recently bought by a Canadian businessman when an exhibition of Ward's paintings went on view in a London art gallery.

This exhibition, designed to capitalize on notoriety, was itself of dubious propriety.

The incidence of the sex-and-security scandal which has rocked governmental circles in Britain and involved Dr. Ward has aroused great public interest, and the playgirls concerned have been the subject of many witticisms bandied back and forth in private conversation. That is small reason for introducing even in what was meant to be innocent fun the matter of the Diefenbaker portrait.

The former prime minister is reported to have sat unsmiling while the Commons laughed in juvenile fashion; he had some cause for disdain of this example of misplaced humor.

Scorning the Public

SOME RESISTANCE is forecast in Saanich when the time arrives in September for the removal of signs that do not meet the terms of a municipal bylaw passed in 1960 but allowing a three-year period of grace for non-conforming advertising of this kind already in existence. There is talk of owners of these displays seeking to protect their investment after the deadline; one for instance, has in mind placing his sign on a truck and parking it outside his premises, so that it will no longer be a fixture governed by the law.

The reluctance of proprietors to tear down advertising structures that in some instances have cost a considerable sum is understandable from the economic point of view even if they have had three years to gain some of their money's worth. And borderline cases no doubt exist in which signs transgress in nature or in measurement but cannot be classed as eyesores. These will be innocent victims of regulation that must apply without discrimination. Otherwise there would be room for favoritism.

It is an odd aspect of business enterprise, however, that owners of garish and overly-obtrusive displays—not only in Saanich, although in that predominantly residential district they stand out so much the more offensively—seem not to realize that their bad taste and their carelessness about spoiling their surroundings is bad advertising, which can repel as much custom as it attracts.

Certainly in deciding whether to accede gracefully to the requirements in Saanich when they become fully effective in September or to fight or try to evade them, owners of non-conforming signs should consider if by taking the latter course they will not be scorning the wishes of the community—meaning most of their customers—and thereby inviting antipathy rather than patronage.

Living Values

EVEN SLUMS are relative. Nepalese mountain guides accustomed to Everest climbing have visited depressed areas in the U.S. city of St. Louis, and wonder why they are called slums.

The "big, beautiful cars, fine clothes and television sets" they saw make them wonder why these streets are so-called.

Obviously they are of the millions of people in the world who would think themselves in paradise if they enjoyed similar conditions.

Governments and society in general are not always to be indicted for run-down civic areas. If those who stay in them yet can afford these modern amenities were as anxious about their living quarters as they are about enjoying expensive adjuncts they would seek to improve the situation by moving to better areas.

This may sometimes be easier said than done, nevertheless the reaction of the Sherpas does put another perspective on the relative values of living.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and scaling box ...
By TOM TAYLOR

MY feet are apt to itch when I see youngsters kicking the round football, wishing no doubt they could recapture the rapture of their heyday, and while they remained calm while I read of the lessons an imported English coach is going to give to local soccer players, senior and junior, they forced my mind to close interest. My first reaction, of course, one invited by other incidence of life too, was that possibly I was born too soon.

My own soccer days were soured by nature and the aptitudes which might lurk unknown in all who essayed to play this game. Coaching in the manner of today was unknown. Even in the highest echelons of the art—and who will deny that mastery of this sometimes elusive sphere is truly an art?—the specialized and formal coaching that attends all forms of athletics to day was conspicuous by its absence.

Many a British footballer of international renown learned the game the way I did; simply by instinct and the ad hoc inherent talent. If one did not have a respectable degree of same one was quickly shunted to the sidelines—or put in goal. No one I ever remember wanted to play between the goalposts, unless he was born to be a goalkeeper. Perhaps that is why in the menage I recall a goalkeeper was thought to be a bit queer.

I learned this fascinating game, and I am sure some other extant Victorians did, via the initial phase of a paper ball, perhaps tied to a string. One could have a wonderful time walking the street and yet playing at football, and in the scale of our pecuniary allowances a soccer ball was expensive even in those bygone days. Another practice, albeit with a small rubber ball this time, was to spread the hands on a wall and "head" the ball against it as many times as possible without losing control. Sometimes it was the chin that elevated the ball back into orbit. Many a later genius emerged from such juvenile apprenticeship.

Even at school the games master did little other than see that in our competitive games we kept our noses clean, as it were, and did not kick the other chap too often in the shins, or, alternatively, trip him when the referee wasn't looking. Coaching was not part of the curriculum. Nor was it much in evidence as I graduated to more senior realms: the training, if I remember correctly, was confined principally to improving one's physical fitness, not to learning the tricks of the trade. In the main one was expected to produce these out of one's own boots.

There cannot be any doubt as to which method is best; the haphazard approach that took it for granted the player was the creator of his own soccer magic, or the clinical exercises through which our local soccer players will expand their enthusiasm and their techniques of the game. But in all humility I must say that some of the most illustrious British figures in the history of this their own native game fared their skills in the old fashion, by themselves.

A Country of Conflicts

By DEREK PAYTON SMITH

AT the moment ... a very unhappy country." This comment on British Guiana by Mr. Duncan Sandys, Britain's Commonwealth and colonial secretary, on his return from his recent fact-finding trip to the colony, would be disputed by no one—least of all the Guianese themselves.

True, things are not quite as bad as they were. The general strike, which brought economic life to a standstill, ended after 78 days—largely through the mediation efforts of a British trade union official, Mr. Robert Willis. People are no longer on the edge of starvation in Georgetown, the capital. The public services have been resumed. The violence between the racial communities, which led to 10 deaths and many injured, has died down considerably.

The arrival of extra British troops had a steady effect on the population, but the situation is still tense. Fear and suspicion are paralyzing co-operation between the two main racial groups, the East Indians, and those of African and mixed descent. The political outlook is obscure.

At present, it is the mistrust between the races which is the focus of attention. But this is not the only factor, nor, until comparatively recently, was it a factor of major importance on the political scene.

Personal and factional rivalries of a peculiarly bitter kind disfigured it long before racial tension. Dr. Jagan, the prime minister, and his ruling People's Progressive Party, have been at loggerheads with the leaders of organized labor ever since 1953. The PPP government is also opposed by the proprietors of all races who fear the suspected Communist sympathies of its ruling hierarchy. Recent events which have suggested that Dr. Jagan has been developing closer ties with international Communism, and in particular with Dr. Castro, have done nothing to allay these fears.

As for the racial conflict, this has emerged since 1955 when the chairman of the People's Progressive Party, Forbes Burnham, seceded from it with his supporters to form what is now the main opposition party, the People's National Congress. The conflict between these two parties, with leaders of different races, polarized politics on racial lines with increasingly harmful effects on both political and social life.

This was the combustible mixture which exploded into violence in February last year, destroying much of the business quarter of Georgetown. The explosion came at a time when the road to independence looked open. For in August, 1961, British Guiana had reached the stage of full internal self-government and later, an independence conference was arranged for May, 1962.

The Georgetown rioting caused this to be postponed. It met eventually last October with every intention on the British side to bring it to a satisfactory conclusion. But the two smaller Guianese parties (which between them polled over 57 per cent of the vote at the last election) refused to agree to independence under the present electoral arrangements, which have given the PPP a clear majority in the legislature.

The conference was therefore adjourned, the first time this had happened in the long British experience of independence conferences.

Nothing that has happened since suggests that Mr. Sandys did not take the right course in refusing to override the opposition as then advocated by Dr. Jagan. It was always in the highest degree unlikely that the majority of voters would tamely accept the rule of a majority party of whose policies they were profoundly mistrustful.

Fundamentally, the key to British Guiana's future lies within the hands of the Guianese leaders themselves. It is hard to see how the country can develop fully as an independent state until she can get out of the blind alley of racial politics and develop a degree of national cohesion.

At this stage of her history, political strife is a luxury British Guiana simply cannot afford. Her political leaders must learn to work together and teach their followers to do likewise. In recent months fear and violence have spread across the colony in a chain reaction. Is it too much to hope that some demonstrative acts of co-operation and goodwill might spark off a reaction the opposite way?

Despite plenty of British prompting since last November, Dr. Jagan and Mr. Burnham have so far shown very little sign that they are ready to do more than go through the motions of joining hands. Following the Sandys visit they are now reported to be in touch once more. The hope is for the formation of a coalition government which would restore a sense of security and make it possible to think calmly about the political future.

What is clear is that the situation in the colony cannot remain as it is. Keeping it under British tutelage will not help it to acquire political maturity and Britain seems to have no intention of staying any longer than she has to. Mr. Sandys has now announced that the independence conference is to be reconvened by next October at the latest, and that if by then the party leaders have not come to some agreement he will impose a constitutional settlement upon them. In the circumstances it is hard to see what else he could do.

Ottawa Offbeat

Sit-In Threat

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonel Ottawa Bureau

THE restive members of this fractious House of Commons, who haven't willingly agreed on anything so far this session, had better get together quickly on a parliamentary pay raise, or find, of all things, a "sit-in-strike" on their hands.

Terrance J. Nugent, the outspoken Conservative MP for Edmonton-Sheraton, has publicly proclaimed his determination to continue sitting "all summer, fall and next winter, too" unless something is done soon about the parliamentary payroll.

A real maverick, this stubbornly independent young Prairie MP is just the man to kick up his parliamentary heels.

He was the unpredictable rebel who last year embarrassed the Diefenbaker government, angered the prime minister and astounded the House by speaking up for Castro and Cuba in the Commons.

So he would be more than capable of staging such a parliamentary pay protest demonstration as his threatened "sit-in."

It may even have to come to that, if the members are ever going to do anything about their pay. For the moment, nobody else is making a move—except for a lot of crying into their coffee about going bankrupt on their annual $10,000. It's been more than 10 years since they last got a pay raise, and meanwhile the cost of living—and of elections—has shot skyward.

The financial plight of the MPs isn't exactly a new story ... two homes to keep up, one here, even if it's only a room in an Ottawa boarding house, and the other, of course, in the constituency ... visiting firemen to feed, water and entertain ... the everlasting drain of being a sitting duck for every charitable appeal and fund drive that comes down the pike ... and, in recent years (what a bankbook breaker, too) those campaign costs.

But despite it all, the governments, former Prime Minister Diefenbaker's and Prime Minister Pearson's alike, have done nothing about it. Reason?

They've both been incurably nervous about the reaction of the taxpayers, mighty few of whom—fewer than 128,000 in more than 4,200,000 by last revenue department count—make as much as $10,000.

But now the honorable members have been financially upstaged by Quebec MLAs, who work less than half as long or hard during the political year, and now are to make just about twice as much.

Actually, the Quebecers are to get $10,000 plus a tax-free $5,000 for expenses which, if you work it out in the income tax tables, comes to the financial equivalent of $19,000 at the single, no dependents top of the scale.

There are some members of the Pearson cabinet who have first-hand experience of how the parliamentary pay shoe pinches.

There were a couple of them who, last year, as Liberal backbenchers, said they wouldn't run for Parliament again. But they did. And when they made the cabinet, they hit the parliamentary pay jackpot for a minister's basic $17,000, plus an MP's $10,000.

Others were not so lucky, especially members of the former Conservative cabinet who, now as ordinary MPs, have taken a salary slash from $27,000 back to $10,000.

A few of the veteran members of the Pearson cabinet went through this same financial wringer when the Liberals took their licking back in 1957. Then, for the next six salary-strapped years, such old Parliament Hill hands as External Affairs Minister Martin, Justice Minister Chevrier and State Secretary Picherill, who had been used to life on that quite-adequate $27,000, had to scrape and scrimp along on $17,000 less.

So on both sides of the House, government and opposition, the men who make the decisions know how close MPs have to sail to the financial wind.

But unless they can get an all-party, non-partisan agreement on it, and quickly and quietly slip a bill for a parliamentary pay raise through both Houses, the MPs will just have to keep on tightening their belts.

It's likely because he knows that this Parliament can't agree on anything, except, perhaps, on disagreeing, that free-wheeling Terry Nugent is getting desperate enough to publicly threaten his parliamentary "sit-in."

"Until I see a bill for a pay raise brought before the Commons," he has threatened, "I'm going to keep jumping up and talking every chance I get so that no legislation will go through."

"Either we get our raise, and fast, or we'll sit here the rest of the summer, through the fall and into the winter."

The "we," he says, indicates he's not alone.

The Packback

Solitary Angling

LORD Byron was a famous poet, but I bet he was a troublesome guy to have for a next door neighbor. For instance, the things he said of anglers. In "Don Juan" and a footnote, he wrote:

"And angling, too, that solitary vice,
Whatever Izaak Walton sings or says;
The quaint, old, cruel coarse, in his gullet

Should have a hook, and a small trout to pull it."
In his note, he says: "The whole, the shark, and the tunny fishery have somewhat of noble and perilous in them; even net fishing, trawling, etc., are more humane and useful. But angling!—No angler can be a good man."

The solitary vice of angling has largely vanished in modern times. Angling has become a social activity, and fishing in parties, squads and platoons is now the fashion. But it is the solitary angler who gets the most out of fishing. It is a recreation in which there is no contest, no competition, no referee. Only God is watching. Solitary angling allows a man to perceive what sort of a man he is.

Closed Churches

MINISTERS claim that churches are buildings of worship and comfort, but after service has been held they often, if not always, lock the doors.

People need spiritual comfort in times of trouble, not just every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Trouble may, and usually does, strike at any hour of the day or night. To find the comfort they seek, people may have to go to a Catholic church, and how hard this may prove to be for the Protestant! It seems that Catholic ministers are the only ones to hold the comfort of their people as most important. Why do other ministers not realize the needs of their people? Please leave church doors open!

Carrot on Stick

Health Minister Judy LaMarsh's recent announcement, no raise in old-age pensions until 1964, appears to have opened a hornet nest throughout the dominion.

What averts me is: A woman, who must understand the hardship of an elderly person trying to stretch $85 to keep body and soul together, could give the impression she can be rough to the feelings of the old person. The impression could be brought to mind as harsh, since the health minister's announcement is a 1964 raise in pension.

That clearly implies the raise in old-age pensions is needed now (today) but the old folk's misery will have to be tolerated for quite a few months. It remembers me of the ancient ad, tying the carrot on a stick ahead

False Hope?

The current news reports on the supposed split between Mao and Peking in relation to their respective ideologies and aims, provoke a thought: Is enough history read and retained?

These reports of a Soviet-Sino split may be a wily attempt at duping the gullible—but Pearl Harbor and even the Cuban situation are a bit of a poser in recent memory. Nevertheless all too soon we forget "Mein Kampf" and the appeasement tactics of Hitler that put us to sleep so successfully for a time.

Someone has stated that, "hope is the feeling one has that the feeling one has isn't permanent" and perhaps it is a good thought to contemplate the lack of gut in hope until experience produces a deserved faith.

The Ward Trial Ramifications Without Parallel

By CASSANDRA from London

A drama is being played at the Old Bailey that for shocked, delighted, dismayed and hypnotic interest is the judicial show of the century.

Dr. Stephen Ward is facing charges ranging from living on the earnings of prostitution to procuring a miscarriage—offences which, in the archaic legal phraseology, are deemed to be "against the peace of our Sovereign Lady the Queen, her Crown and Dignity." You can say that again.

The issues of the trial itself are commonplace. But the ramifications and the reverberations are without parallel.

Great scandals like the Dreyfus affair or the South Sea Bubble shook the French and British Governments but the elements were comparatively simple.

The Profumo Affair has blown the whole lid off the conception of Britain in the Nineteen-Sixties. It has made the scandals of the past seem like the sweet tinklings of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. Anybody who dreamed up the plot and wrote the script of this lusty lurid case and then offered it to the most imaginative and daring producer or publisher would be shown the door with these words: "We can take the latest extravaganzas of science fiction, we can accept extreme fantasy as cool normality and we can treat the most frenzied invention with equanimity."

"But this time you have gone too far. No plot conceived in a delirious trance, such as you have obviously been suffering from, would ever be accepted by the public. You have gone too far. Good day to you."

Bewildered Confusion

Consider the formula. Take a Prime Minister, Harold Macmillan, who for decades in aloof and powerful British political life, has traded upon, and used to the full, his reputation for suave poise and elegant serenity.

Throw him into the extremity of bewildered confusion by confronting him with a trusted colleague, John Profumo, whom Macmillan appointed to one of the most elevated and responsible jobs in the land—that of Her Majesty's Secretary of State for War.

Profumo then lied and lied again to the Prime Minister and, having failed to bring off one of the most outrageous bluffs of the century, broke down and confessed.

Macmillan, staggered and appalled at the deception, said: "It will not break my spirit but it wounds my heart," and then as the pressure rose for him to resign, he went on: "I will not make my whole life worthless or meaningless by being untrue to those convictions either through panic or obstinacy."

He seemed dazed at the sexual peccadilloes and the double-crossing and deceit going on all round him, and later said, rather pathetically: "I don't live among young people."

Add to this dramatic situation, involving the whole future of the 300-year-old Conservative Party, stories of prostitutes, spies, West Indian gunmen, voyeurs, blackmailers, beatings-up, drugs, orgies, fraud, a slum racket running into millions of pounds and the biggest defamatory whispering campaign in living memory, and you can see how the conception of rectitude, of patriotism, of devotion to duty, of respectable family life, in which the British are supposed to pride themselves, may have been blown to smithereens.

Mocked by French

What do foreigners make of all this? What do they think of us now? I have made inquiries in Paris, Rome, New York, Washington and Bonn.

The French are having their biggest laugh for years. They will not easily give up their conviction that the British are among the most accomplished humbugs in the world. They say: "Why all the fuss?"

"This sort of thing happens all the time. It goes on all over the world. It is not even interesting."

But nevertheless "La Belle Christine" and "Le Monsieur Profumo" are names to raise the ribald Gallic laugh and Keeler's picture was on the front pages of Paris newspapers.

One of the sharpest comments was published in France Observateur showing a naked lady hiding behind the Royal Coat of Arms bearing the motto: "Honi soit qui mal y pense."

Laxity Worries U.S.

In New York and Washington the tendency is to be more concerned not with the wiles and curves of Christine Keeler and Mandy Rice-Davies, but with the lax security situation involving "the British War Minister and a presumed Soviet spy."

The New York Times says: "No one in the Government or the Tory party was tarnished except Mr. Profumo." But it also describes the whole business as "one of the most sensational scandals in modern British history" and adds sternly: "The British are a very moral and religious people; but normally they keep such virtues for their private lives. But not this time."

The New York Post, with a fine old display of the British bunting, says crisply: "It is our considered opinion that the nation which triumphantly lived through the Battle of Britain will survive the indiscretions of John Profumo."

The New York Mirror was amused and cracked at the Labor Party: "For all their manifestation of indignation, shock and horror, the Laborites must be secretly grinning at never having it so good politically."

Great profusion, politics, the second oldest in the world!"

The Washington Post moralized: "Perhaps the Profumo case may elevate the moral standard of public men, or at least induce in them a greater degree of prudence and a greater deference to the dictates of acceptable customs and morals."

Germans Restrained

Of all our critics the Germans seem to have been the most restrained. The summing-up in Bonn is that the Ward-Keeler-Profumo Affair is small beer compared with what has been going on in Federal Germany.

"The Germans," writes Denis Martin, "are seriously worried about the constant unmasking of large well-conducted spy rings inside the NATO front line but they are not inclined to place much store by vague allegations that security matters were involved in the Profumo case."

"They have recently had their own trouble with their own War Minister—a far stronger character than Profumo and his pals. Herr Franz-Joseph Strauss felt that he was able to ride roughshod over all opposition until he launched the Gestapo-type raid against the news magazine Der Spiegel—and lost."

"This was the end and public opinion, well ahead of its rulers

'Mac's Pact' Re-Gilds Image

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

It may be an exaggeration to call it Mac's Pact but Prime Minister Macmillan doesn't object when newspapers use that tag.

It is generally agreed in Britain that no one has worked more consistently than Macmillan for a nuclear test ban treaty—and no one stands to gain more from its successful conclusion.

All the sensations and political disasters of the last few months failed to shake his determination to make a full British contribution to such a treaty, and in this one thing at least he has enjoyed solid backing throughout the country.

strengthen his position further. This doesn't mean his troubles are over, but the political climate certainly has changed since a month ago when people were talking about Macmillan being banished in disgrace.

The British order for a treaty puts Macmillan in a happy position since there is no question of Parliament's approval—the "door is open," as one source put it. President Kennedy, on the other hand, has the task of getting the treaty through the U.S. Congress.

There is concern in London, however, that France would apparently not consider itself ever, that the nuclear treaty would lead to a real start on general and complete disarmament, the point being made that even without nuclear weapons the world could be wrecked by the use of conventional arms at their present stage of development.

Early Gains Wiped Out At New York

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market staged a brief celebration of the new postwar position of the U.S. railway strike, making a vigorous early rally, then sagging back into irregularity. By the close, the industrial section of the list was lower. Gains held by rails and utilities were all that kept the list even. Many traders sold as prices reached their peak. After that, buying dried up and prices wilted. Many of the "glamour" stocks in photography, office equipment and electronics wiped out fat early gains and either declined or showed trifling advances on the day. Oils remained mostly higher standing firm against the retreat from the tops.

Papers Slacken Off

MONTREAL (CP)—Papers were weaker, led by Dominion. Abitibi fell 1/2 and Bowater was down 1/2. Banks slipped to lower ground. Miscellaneous industrial gains included Robert Morse, up 1/2, Bruck Mills A, up a point. Commodore Business Machines better by 40 cents, and Simpson's, higher by 1/2. Refining oils showed strength, led by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines up a point. Imperial gained 1/2. Interprovincial Pipe Lines was better by 1/2 and Shell added 1/2.

Senior Metals Were Mixed

Noranda added 1/2 and Asbestos and Consolidated Mining up 1/2. International Nickel fell 1/2 and Aluminium was down 1/2.

Banks Lose Heavily

TORONTO (CP)—With industrial investment on the sidelines, the stock market suffered a slight relapse during some of the slowest trading since December. Banks were the heaviest losers. Toronto-Dominion falling 1/2 to 61 1/2 and Imperial Bank of Commerce slipping 1/2. Bank of Montreal was off 1/2. Royal Bank and Nova Scotia 1/2.

Aluminium Dipped 1/2

Aluminium dipped 1/2 and drops of 1/2 went to Abitibi, Distillers Seagrams, Industrial Acceptance, Interprovincial Pipe Line and Dominion Foundries and Steel.

Among Gainers, Trans-Canada Pipe Line Rose to 29 and Calgary Power and B.C. Power rose 1/2. International Nickel dropped 1/2 to 61 1/2 in senior base metals and Falconbridge fell 1/2. Noranda advanced 1/2.

Canada Southern Petroleum rose 20 cents to $4.35 in western oils.

Strong in Spots

VANCOUVER—Strong spots in a generally dull market were B.C. Power at 22, B.C. Forest at 18 1/2, Trans Canada at 29, Growers at 19 and Woodwards at 19 1/2. Lower were Canadian Collieries at 9 1/2 and Aluminium at 26 1/2.

Year Suspension In Juvenile Case

Charged with contributing to juvenile delinquency Norman Bradley was given a one-year suspended sentence and put on a $500 good behavior bond in City magistrate's court yesterday.

The accused was picked up during a raid by the RCMP narcotic squad on a Cook Street address. Living in the same apartment was a 17-year-old girl.

Magistrate Ostler pointed out the same act could be carried on elsewhere with impunity because of the juvenile age limit. In most provinces the age limit is 16 but in B.C. the juvenile age is 18.

B.C. BORDER

When the B.C. border is crossed it becomes a criminal offence, said the magistrate.

During last Thursday's court session evidence of members of the narcotics squad disclosed that Bradley,

City, Saanich Plan Parley

Saanich and Victoria councils, often at loggerheads with each other on mutual problems, will attempt to iron out some of their differences during a joint meeting on Aug. 5.

It was not known yesterday where the special meeting will be held, but it will be attended by both councils and senior officials of both areas, said Reeve Stanley Murphy of Saanich.

On the agenda will be discussion of the future of the city's Elk-Beaver Lake holdings in Saanich and traffic problems anticipated along the municipal boundary near the new Mayfair shopping centre, he said.

scantly clad, and the 17-year-old girl, wearing night attire were found in the house together during the raid. There was only one bed made up in the house.

Magistrate Ostler said the evidence of contributing was indisputable and found Bradley guilty.

He was told he would be allowed to see the girl but as a suitor only.

Bradley was put on a $500 good behavior bond and required to report to the probation officer or chief of police as requested.

JOB WAITING

Court was told Bradley had a job waiting for him and that the welfare officer in charge of the 17-year-old girl's case had approved him helping to pay her way.

"All I want to do is mind my own business and keep out of jackpots," Bradley told the court.

In previous testimony the girl admitted she was carrying another man's child, but Bradley indicated he intended to marry her in spite of this.

"I can see no purpose in a jail sentence here," said Magistrate Ostler.

A man whose only excuse for being in a house was that he wished to use a telephone pleaded guilty to a charge of being in a dwelling house.

Allan Stewart, 541 Johnson, was remanded for a probation report.

Constable Raymond Thomas testified the accused entered 1220 Haultain through an open door at the rear of the house. A search disclosed two bureau drawers in a downstairs bedroom had been rifled.

Something Has to Go!

Something has to go! Eight years ago Mrs. Rudolph Gatzke, 15 Oswego, planted tiny Mexican ti-plant in her living room. Two years ago it started producing blooms, rather like white lilac, at top. But look what else it did! Mr. Gatzke refuses to cut hole in either ceiling or floor, so evidently ti-plant is what has to go.—(Bud Kinsman)

Owner Fearful For His Boat

Something should be done to protect boats from vandalism around Inner Harbor, a boat owner who has had some difficulties with children, said yesterday.

Harry Gilbert, 38, who lives aboard his 36-foot ketch Kelasa, tied up west of Johnson Street bridge, said it took him four years to build the boat and he would hate to see it stolen or damaged—even though it is insured for $16,000.

"That boat is part of me. It would take years to get over it if I lost it," he said.

So far, it has not been damaged, although the skipper has found young children scampering about her decks, has found the gear moved around and a bolt pulled loose from a dinghy which had been chained to the dock.

"Other people down here have had to chain their boats to the dock in keep people from stealing them. Obviously, the police can't stand guard over the place 24 hours a day, but a person should have some protection," he said.

New Chief Gets 'Leave'

Staff Sergeant J. F. Gregory has received RCMP confirmation for two years' leave to serve as chief of police in Victoria, Mayor R. B. Wilson said yesterday.

Sgt. Gregory, currently stationed in Prince Rupert, is expected to arrive here late in August, and serve as police chief until Aug. 31, 1965.

Compliment For B.C. Publication

"Beautiful British Columbia" magazine has won a beautiful compliment.

In a North America-wide contest of conservation publications it was awarded second prize by the American Association for Conservation Information.

It competed against publications from all parts of the U.S. and Canada and ran second only to the "New York Conservationist."

Meat Market

Picketing Curb Ordered

Strikers at the Alberta Meat Market may not picket the market's trucks while the trucks are making pickups and deliveries, a B.C. Supreme Court judge ruled Thursday.

Mr. Justice J. S. Alkens in a written judgment dismissed an application by Local 212, the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, to have an injunction against alleged illegal activities by the union set aside or varied.

The injunction now will stand until September when the meat market will claim damages for loss of business because of alleged illegal activities by picketers.

The injunction, originally granted last month, does not prohibit normal picketing at the meat market's premises, 1811 Cook.

Lawyer Donald McTaggart of Vancouver represented the union and E. E. Pearman of Victoria the meat market.

Thieves Get Big Haul

Thieves took seven mantle radios, nine transistor radios, tape recorder and a portable television set from a Douglas Street electrical store overnight Tuesday.

Total estimated value of the goods, stolen from Meadwell's Radio and Electric, 2651 Douglas, is $1,000. Thieves took "only the best items in the store," said Mrs. Edith Meadwell.

Faloney On Target For Ti-Cats

HAMILTON (UPI)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats made it to the Grey Cup final last year although they didn't have Bernie Faloney for most of the season. Well, Faloney is back, and apparently healthy.

With Faloney at the quarterback, the Tiger-Cats at least exacted a small measure of revenge for their Grey Cup defeat by edging out the champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 24-23, last night before about 7,500 fans.

Faloney, out to regain his first-string job from Joe Zuger, who sparked as his rookie na-placement last season, came on the scene in the second quarter with the Tiger-Cats trailing 14-0. The Hamilton club immediately started to move as the assured Faloney mixed his plays well, getting yardage on the ground, then taking to the air when he went after a major score.

Tiger-Cats trailed by 14-2 when Faloney started a Hamilton comeback with a pass to John Drew, who covered 29 yards before going over the Winnipeg line. Don Sutherland made the first of three converts to leave it at 14-9 at half-time.

SEVEN OF EIGHT

Faloney, clicking on seven of eight pass attempts, got Hamilton ahead in the third quarter by combining with veteran-end Hal Patterson on a scoring play which covered 69 yards.

Hamilton kicked for one point and Winnipeg for two to leave the score 17-16 for the Tiger-Cats before Faloney struck again in the fourth quarter. He steered his club on a long drive which he climaxed with a 14-yard touchdown pass to Willie Bethes with only two minutes and 17 seconds left.

MADE IT CLOSE

Bombers made it close with a last-second touchdown, on a pass from Dick Thornton to Bill Cooper.

Earlier, Farrell Fuston scored the first Winnipeg touchdown, in the first quarter, on a pass from Kenny Ploen and Joe Williams scored the second, in the second quarter, on a two-yard plunge after an 85-yard march directed by Hal Ledyard.

THREE CONVERTS

Gordie Rowland converted all three Winnipeg touchdowns and Thornton got the other two points with two punts.

Zuger kicked three single points for the Tiger-Cats to round out their scoring.

Gilchrist In Form

MONTREAL (CP) — Tall, powerful Sandy Gilchrist, of Ocean Falls, B.C., continued his assault on Canada's swimming records Thursday night by setting two records at the Canadian swimming and diving championships.

The 17-year-old swimmer did 200 metres freestyle in the sparkling time of 2:03.2, edging Don Sherry of Hamilton, Ont., by an arm's length in the night's most exciting race.

He then set a record in the grueling 400-metre individual medley, winning by almost 20 yards over teammate Ralph Hutton, a game 15-year-old. Gilchrist had done the 400-metre medley only once before Thursday because of his feeble back stroke.

Mantle's Knee Injury May End His Season

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankees' injury-prone $100,000-a-year outfielder, turned up with a new ailment Thursday which cast some doubt on his ability to get back into the regular lineup this season.

Manager Ralph Houk made the announcement in disclosing that the slugging centre fielder, featured National League play. Koufax lost his fourth game in 20 decisions when Pittsburgh Pirates got great relief pitching from rookie Tom Seaver to win, 6-2. Mays, who was hitting about .270 when the week started, continued his batting surge by batting in four runs with a single and three-run homer as the San Francisco Giants ended New York Mets to tie a 47-year-old major league record of 19 straight road defeats by winning, 8-6.

But it was at Milwaukee that fans saw something unusual. Warren Spahn of the Braves trying to beat Lew Burdette of the St. Louis Cardinals.

BROKEN UP
Together for 11 seasons with the Braves, Spahn and Burdette won 393 games between them but the combination was broken up five weeks back when Burdette was traded to St. Louis.

Two runs in the fourth inning on a double by Bill White, singles by Stan Musial and Tim Lincecum and two errors gave it to Burdette, 3-1. Burdette allowed but five hits while Spahn, making his first start since July 7, when he was sidelined by a sore elbow, gave up eight in as many innings.

in addition to a foot injury, also has a loose cartilage in his left knee.

"We don't want to minimize it," Houk told a press conference after the Yankees 5-0 loss to Los Angeles Angels at Yankee Stadium. "We just want to take the pressure off him. We don't know when he might play."

"If the ailment responds to treatment, he might be able to pinch-hit next week."

RAN INTO FENCE
Mantle broke a bone in his left foot when he ran into a fence while chasing a Brooks Robinson home run at Baltimore June 5.

Houk said Mantle may have injured the knee at the same time, although the loose cartilage may have been a subsequent casualty.

Yesterday also brought an end to the Yankees' latest winning streak, which had reached six games and established a healthy lead.

Right-hander Ken McBride, always tough for the Yankees, beat them for the third time this season with three-hit pitching which resulted in a 5-0 victory for Los Angeles Angels.

LOOSE START

Beaten was Al Downing, the sensational rookie left-hander. Downing walked the first two batters to set up a three-run first inning and while he was unbeatable from there until taken out for a pinch-hitter after six innings, it was more than enough for McBride.

Chicago's second-place White Sox took the chance to gain a game by squeaking past Detroit Tigers, 4-3, but Minnesota Twins, considered the chief threat to the Yankees, were beaten by one hit.

IN CONTROL
Leading, 2-0, with Jim Perry in seeming control of the situation, the Twins were beaten, 3-2, by Cleveland Indians when Willie Kirkland hit a three-run homer in the eighth inning.

West Indies 294 For Five Wickets

LEEDS, England (Reuters)—Garfield Sobers and Rohan Kanhai, who have both had a lean series hereto, returned to their best form against England here Thursday when the fourth Test began at Headingley.

They came together when the West Indies were struggling at 173 for three, and their stand of 143 in 160 minutes restored the situation for the visitors.

FINE RECOVERY
Sobers later added 73 with Joe Solomon for the fifth wicket and at the close the West Indies were 294 for five—a fine recovery after the early setbacks.

Sobers, whose injured finger was not finally passed fit by a doctor until Thursday morning batted four hours and 10 minutes and hit 15 fours in his total 102 in a superb display. Kanhai's total was 82.

This was Sobers' 14th Test century—though his first in England—and he became the 11th man in history to pass 4,000 runs in Test matches.

OUTDOORS

This weekend the fishing limelight turns to Saanich Inlet where Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association holds its big two-day Handicapped Children's Derby with fishing from daylight to 3 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Everyone with a $1 ticket may fish and consolation prize is a new car.

Fishing outlook in the Inlet is pretty good with some big spring-trout from Tod Inlet and Willis to Whittaker Point waters and also from the Goldstream end. Deep Cove is a likely spot for coho. Last weekend first humpies to be taken from Saanich Inlet in several years were weighed in at Brentwood.

Victoria to Oak Bay waters are still a-bubbling with pinkies and a few more coho each day, with Oak Bay giving up big springs as well.

Up-Island resort owners are feeling left out of it as Victoria bags the spotlight with its best run of fish in years. "Fishing is terrific here, too," is the universal cry. "Fishing is excellent at Qualicum," says Murray Cree of Cameron Court. "There seems to be a big run of fish all along the coast now. We have come out of the doldrums of a week or so ago, and the fish are big. Bass, trout, salmon and Tom Mac's are getting them, and a few springs are mixed in with them."

From Claytons comes reports of good coho fishing for four to six-pounds, some springs up to 27 pounds and a few pinkies. French Creek has been good for coho, blues and springs up to 22 pounds. Most fishermen have been picking up two or three and some are getting limit catches.

At Nanaimo fishing has been spotty, but bad weather has had a lot to do with it. Coho in that area are in the eight-pound class now.

Fisheries officials report excellent fishing from Qualicum to Comox, with coho up to five pounds plentiful. Catches at Comox Bay, bell buoy and Cape Lazo averaged better than three fish to a boat. First type has been landed at Comox, a 33-pounder by Winnipeg visitor Mrs. J. Gribbling.

George Bates reports good fishing off his beach and down towards Little River.

Hester Brooks of Rod and Reel Motel at Shelter Point says there has been no fishing there. "Limit catches right off the point, green and white bucktail flies and spoons are getting them."

Rita Cundy of Fernside Court says coho in the Cape Mudge-bell-buoy-outer help waters are "fat and fighting crazy, but you still have to work for them." Lots of pinkies are showing in Campbell River waters and someone is always bringing in a spring in the 20-pound class.

Scotty Welsh of Mecca, Calif., had a thrill when he took his spinning rod, 10-pound-test line and a Tiny Louie plug out to have some fun with coho and after a 1½-hour fight ended up with a 23½-pound spring.

Tyee are expected to reach Campbell River in good numbers any day now.

"Coho limits have been the rule, rather than the exception," says John Corbett of Painter's Lodge.

John and Lew Ebert of Rustle Motel report "lots and lots of fish at Campbell River... good at the 15th off Quinlan's Cove, April Point, Nov-and-Pe-Dummed and Copper Bluffs. Trout are mixed with blue and coho."

No tyee have been reported from Gold River, but there have been some 28 and 29-pounders. There is no camping allowed at the Tahsis Camp at Gold River. You have to camp within the Strathcona Park boundaries 20 miles back, or make arrangements with Jim Boulding of Strathcona Lodge to stay at the Tyee Camp annex. You may launch your boat at Gold River, then park your car in the company parking lot and walk back to your boat a few hundred yards.

Tyee season open at Port Alberni Sunday and Port Boat House will be under new management of Mr. and Mrs. George Murphy.

Tyee season continues until Oct. 8 with three-day open derby scheduled for Labor Day weekend and Tyee Week Aug. 25 to Sept. 2.

There has been some good early morning and evening fishing for coho at Cowichan Bay and in the past few days some big springs have shown.

Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association will hold its annual gala outdoors' night at the Goldstream Clubhouse Thursday night at 6:30 p.m. with trap shooting, followed by bull shooting in the clubhouse. All persons who fished or hunted on the Island before 1930 are invited to get in touch with club president Brian Roberts at EV 5-0210 or Norman Alexander at EV 3-2960.

Cash for Sex Horrifying Ward Claims

LONDON — Society osteopath Dr. Stephen Ward opened his defence against vice charges Thursday by declaring he thoroughly disapproves of "any woman who takes money for sex alone."

He said he was horrified to learn playgirl Christine Keeler took money from ex-war minister John Profumo.

He told the court all the charges against him are a pack of lies and rejected the testimony of Christine Keeler, Mandy Rice-Davies and other girls that they sold their bodies in his various apartments as untruths, exaggerations and in some cases inventions.

Ward took the witness stand shortly after an angry crowd turned on Miss Keeler as she left court, jeering and tossing eggs at her. The frightened Miss Keeler was ashen-faced as a squad of police rushed in and helped her escape into a taxi.

As the cab sped away Miss Keeler could be spotted looking tense-faced and bewildered at the sudden change in mood of the crowds that had previously treated her as a celebrity.

Ward, described by his attorney as "a highly-sexed man who had affairs with a great many women," testified he informed Britain's secret service in August or June, 1961, that Profumo was having an affair with Christine Keeler while she was also bedding down with "a Russian."

Ward, accused of living off immoral earnings and procuring girls for other men, agreed with his attorney that he was "a thoroughly immoral man" who liked pretty girls around him, to paint their portraits and have relations with them.

Ward testified he was introduced to Profumo by his friend, Viscount Astor, on whose Cliveden estate the whole scandal was alleged to have been spawned when Profumo spotted Christine emerging nude from a swimming pool after a moonlight dip.

Miss Keeler's friend, call girl Marilyn (Mandy) Rice-Davies, claimed she had sexual relations with Astor, as well as with noted actor-businessman Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. Both have denied the charges.

Christine No Prostitute

Ward said he would not agree to a description of the red-haired Miss Keeler as a prostitute.

"It all depends on what you mean by a prostitute," he told his attorney, James Burge. "If you simply mean a woman who sells her body—that would apply to any woman who takes money for sex alone."

"I myself thoroughly disapprove of any woman who takes money for sex alone."

Ward admitted Miss Keeler, 21, lived with him.

"I admired Christine," he said. "She was cheerful company . . . platonic."

Ward, nervously drumming his fingers on the front edge of the witness box, flatly testified that "I never slept with Miss Keeler."

He said her stories that he induced her to procure girls for him were not true and questioned her testimony that she shared her favours with Soviet naval attaché Yevgeny Ivanov while she was going with Profumo.

"I have only Miss Keeler's word for it," Ward said. "She told me she would like to have intercourse with him. I have always believed she never did."

He related how he went to visit Miss Keeler when she moved into an apartment in the Fulham district of London and there met blonde, 18-year-old Mandy Rice-Davies, who was sharing the flat.

Ward said Mandy, 18, also lived with him at one time, but insisted her stories about him also were untrue.

"Did you ever take anybody around with you to introduce them for the purpose of intercourse or anything?" he was asked.

"No," he replied.

Ward testified he had been a friend of Lord Astor, 58-year-old son of American-born Lady Nancy Astor, for 12 years and that Lord Astor had helped him financially from time to time.

Ward said he paid a nominal rent of only $2.80 a year for a cottage on Lord Astor's estate.

Miss Rice-Davies had testified earlier that Lord Astor paid the rent of the Fulham flat.

He Paid Landlord

Asked about the rent, Ward said:

"I had seen the two girls at the flat and they were broke. They were contemplating a moonlight flight. I mentioned this to Lord Astor one day and I said I would pay the rent for them. He said 'I will give you a cheque and you can pay me back later.'"

"He did this," he added. "I gave the cheque straight to the landlord."

Burge asked Ward whether, during the time Miss Keeler was living at his Wimpole Mews flat, he knew if she had intercourse with men.

"I don't really know," Ward said.

And if she did, whether the intercourse was for money? he was asked.

"I haven't the remotest idea."

"Would you have allowed her to continue living there if she had?"

"I certainly would not."

Ward was asked whether he knew Miss Keeler was meeting Profumo.

"Yes, I did," he replied.

"Was there any question in your mind of her accepting money?"

"No, I was horrified to learn about it."

Miss Keeler recalled earlier Thursday as a witness, admitted Ward tried to break her of two habits—smoking marijuana and taking West Indian lovers.

Christine had lost her brazen confidence when she returned to the witness box.

She was wearing a smart, cream colored coat but her long hair was obviously in need of attention. During her 11 minutes of testimony, she nervously squeezed a tissue into a tight little ball.

Visits to U.S. Barred For Christine, Marilyn

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. government has cancelled the visas of Christine Keeler and Marilyn Rice-Davies, two playgirls involved in the vice trial of Dr. Stephen Ward in London. The immigration and naturalization service here warned shipping companies and airlines not to bring them to the U.S.

Miss Keeler's visa was granted July 3, 1962, a day after Miss Rice-Davies received hers. Miss Keeler testified in London that one man with whom she had slept paid the fare for the two girls to visit the U.S. last summer.

U.K. Mystery Crater Made by Meteorite

CHARLTON, England (Reuters)—A crater in a potato field here that sparked rumors of flying saucers and questions in Parliament turned out Thursday to have been made by a meteorite.

An army bomb disposal squad investigating the hole dug up a baseball-sized chunk of metallic stone in the centre of a pattern of torn-up turf and burn marks.

Astronomer Patrick Moore described it as a characteristic meteor strike.

A Briton who described himself as an astrophysicist said earlier he was convinced the marks had been made by a 600-ton flying saucer making an emergency landing for repairs. Some members of Parliament had said they would formally ask Air Minister Julian Amery to investigate.

In southern Scotland police closed off a field where farmer James Brown found similar craters earlier in the week.

Ward's Show Goes On

LONDON (Reuters) — A spokesman for the gallery showing portraits by Dr. Stephen Ward said Thursday that "whatever happens we have no intention of closing."

He was commenting on a report that London authorities had given the gallery 48 hours' notice either to get a certificate required under the public buildings laws or to close the exhibition.

The spokesman said: "This exhibition continues and we shall keep it open in one form or another while public interest remains."

A London County Council spokesman said the notice to the gallery was sent off by registered mail Wednesday after it was learned the gallery had started charging admission.

A gallery director said alleged "irregularities" were that the gallery had been converted into a public building without notice to the district surveyor and without his certifying the building.

Crackdown Coming

More police supervision and vision of the Esplanade and that radar are the only answer to speeding on the Esplanade, the works committee of Oak Bay council agreed last night.

The committee voted last night to recommend to council that continued attention be given to close police supervision of the Esplanade and that radar be purchased as soon as possible. It was indicated this could mean next year, or at the end of this year, if there is money left over in the police commission budget.

Committee members also seemed to agree on one of both

Rusty's Biggest Day Was Also His Last

VANCOUVER (CP)—Wednesday was a big day in the life of Rusty, a four-year-old German shepherd—he got a new master.

But the day was also his last. Today, police are seeking the man who bought Rusty from a pound for $15 and left him locked in a parked car with the windows closed in the heat of day.

A passerby saw the dog clawing to get out. Police were called but before they arrived the car owner had returned and the dog had been released by Inspector William Bell of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Mr. Bell said the dog was too weak to stand.

Meanwhile, the car owner drove back to the SPCA-operated pound and got his $15 back, saying the dog had gone berserk and chewed up the car's upholstery.

Rusty was returned to the pound, where he died four hours later.

Police are looking for the car, which bore Manitoba plates. They say charges of wilful neglect of an animal will be laid if the driver is found.

ends of the less than half-mile strip along Willem Beach mill sooner or later have to be joined to other roads. At present, the Esplanade can be reached by car by way of Estevan Avenue only.

TRY BUMP

An experimental attempt to discourage speeding on the Esplanade by putting a semi-cylindrical "bump" across the road was rapidly abandoned when hundreds of the tire-squealing noisy teenagers whom the bump was intended to discourage flocked to the Esplanade to try out the bump.

Coun. Alex Hendry, committee chairman, said, "The only answer is supervision. It's going to mean much more police work and it's going to cost more money to do it."

Oak Bay Police Chief Robert Smith said the Esplanade presents the very type of situation police radar was designed for. The physical situation, he said, prohibits a police car from following a suspected speeder and "pacing" him.

SCOPE FOR ABUSE

The only other possibility, relying on speed estimates by policemen, allows too much scope for abuses, he said.

He said the proper use of police radar is in places where "pacing" is impractical, such as the Esplanade, near municipal boundaries and near the borders of different speed limit areas.

The committee recommended to council that a 15-mile-an-hour zone be made of that block of Estevan.

Whither Forecast

Warm weather warnings were posted in El Paso, Tex., as temperatures soared to 107 degrees. This sign at First Assembly of God Church states succinctly: "You Think It's Hot Here." (AP Photos)

Men Die in Bunks In Tug Sinking

NANAIMO—Two men are believed to have died in their bunks when a steel-hulled tugboat sank near Hammond Bay, five miles north of here, early Thursday.

Presumed drowned are Ken Hues, 36, of North Surrey, skipper of the ill-fated vessel Scotch Fir, and 16-year-old deckhand Ken Kasper of Aldergrove.

Long survivor Don Maxim of Vancouver rowed for four hours to Nanaimo after the 30-foot tug suddenly began to sink.

TOLD POLICE
Maxim told police he was at the wheel when he noticed the tug, without any warning, was sinking. He said the craft was in deep water at the time and to the best of his knowledge did not hit anything.

He had only time to launch the lifeboat before the Scotch Fir disappeared. He did not know whether the others got off.

Maxim reached shore and telephoned RCMP at 4:30 a.m. A prompt search by the RCAF Air-Sea Rescue found only a life ring floating near the scene, off Neck Point.

Nanaimo Harbourmaster John Dunham said his patrol boat was called in to help with the search at noon.

The tug was towing a log boom when it foundered.

Scotch Fir is owned by Texada Towing Company and is the second steel-hulled tug the company has lost this year.

In March the 50-foot Black Fir sank off Gower Point, 15 miles west of Vancouver. The three-man crew was rescued, but cause of the sinking was never determined.

Minesweeper Broken Into

Thieves smashed two port-holes to gain entry to a 132-foot minesweeper docked at Sidney Roofing Company this week, and stole $600 worth of equipment from the boat.

City Acts on Molesters

At the prudence of Ald. J. to oppose an application by L. W. McLean, city council yesterday decided to reactivate plans to stop molesters in Beacon Hill Park.

"The safety and security of citizens, particularly young people in Beacon Hill Park came up some time ago," he said. "It was suggested that there should be a conference between the parks committee and the police commission over ways to combat the problem."

Question of just how long a tourist can stay at city accommodation and remain a tourist is still worrying aldermen. Council decided to ask the Victoria Advisory Planning Commission to consider ways of regulating the stay of guests in apartments, motels and transient accommodation.

City council yesterday voted

Closed Circuit TV System

Do-It-Yourself Detection

'Big Brother' Watching the Toll Takers

Big Brother is watching B.C. government ferry service toll-takers.

TV cameras have been placed at the Swartz Bay terminal's toll booth—one with its eye on the cash register and another on passing cars.

The electronic booth sleuth becomes a do-it-yourself detection kit for ferry passengers who can view the TV images on receivers set up in waiting rooms.

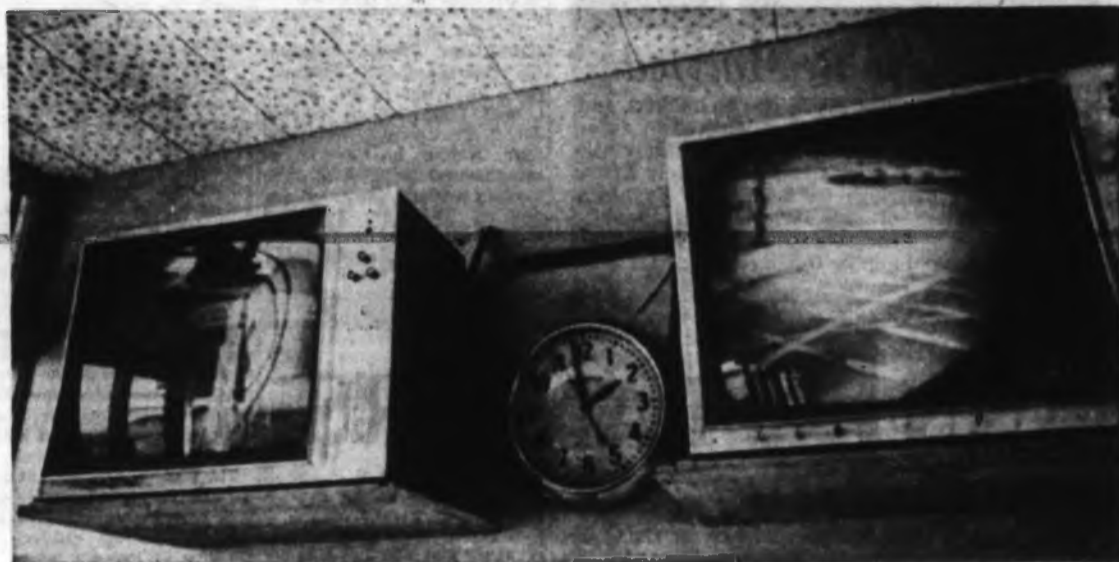

No Re-runs

The ensuing program may not be very entertaining but at least there will be no re-runs.

A ferry official said the monitoring system is being tried on an experimental basis. If it is successful it will probably be duplicated at other terminals.

The closed-circuit TV installation is only one part of a new program of vigilance at toll authority terminals which came on the heels of toll theft allegations at Nanaimo.

The moves are designed to bolster a toll-collection system which a former Nanaimo terminal manager for the government ferries described as an invitation to theft.

—Ryan Bros.

Toll-taking is screened in terminal coffee shop, where public can view system in action.

Government Street Protest

Car Ban Backfires

One Driver Happy With Situation

A city hall scheme to speed traffic and stimulate business for its off-street parking garage by banning parking in an eight-block section on the west side of Government Street backfired yesterday.

Lawyer Forrest L. Shaw, representing 73 businessmen and property owners in the eight-block section of Government Street protested against the move at yesterday's meeting of city council.

"No Parking" signs have been put up along the west side of Government Street from Cormorant to Humboldt and merchants in that area are left without a single loading zone, Mr. Shaw charged.

To operate their businesses these storekeepers have to break the law by parking illegally.

Between Government and Wharf reduced available street parking by some 60 spaces.

MAIN REASON

City traffic engineer Ken Reid said last night the main reason for the total parking ban along the west side of Government was to relieve traffic congestion on the street but he agreed part of the reason was also to stimulate business at the new civic garage.

The move has been successful at relieving the congestion along Government Street, he said.

BREAKING LAW

"These people are breaking the law in carrying things in and out of their stores," Mr. Shaw told council. "Even limited parking would not have been so bad as total prohibition."

Not only merchants on the west side of Government are disturbed by the ban, he added.

Some of the merchants on the east side also signed the petition he presented to council.

PEAK PERIODS

Traffic congestion along Government Street at peak periods would be cured if left-hand turns were prohibited, he stated, and he pressed for at least a modification of the total parking ban.

He said traffic jams on Government Street were not a 24-hour-a-day proposition but occurred at peak periods. Banning of parking during peak periods would be a partial solution to merchants' problems.

A meeting will be held as soon as possible between four representatives of the merchants represented by Mr. Shaw, four spokesmen for the Downtown Businessmen's Association, and the city's public works committee.

Eyes In Both

"Pay TV" comes to British Columbia as closed-circuit television checks B.C. Toll Authority ticket agents and cars at Swartz Bay. Employee George Hurry, himself target for one camera, stands by second which films passing cars. —(Ryan Bros.)

New signs urge passengers to make sure they get toll receipt.

No Check

He claimed there was no check on the honesty of toll-takers because no accurate count of cars and passengers was ever made aboard the vessels and no ticket collection system was used.

The ex-manager said the obvious technique for thefts was for a toll-taker to hold back the passenger's receipt after ringing up a sale, then issue the receipt to another passenger without ringing up a sale.

To block this possibility the ferry service has erected big new signs urging passengers to be sure they get a receipt so that they can produce it later if it is called for.

Periodic checks are to be made among passengers to see that receipts have been issued.

Not to Spy

A ferry official said the new security program is not so much to spy on employees as to reassure the public that toll money is being properly handled.

The TV equipment is being leased from B.C. Telephone Co.

An official said that if the system is adopted throughout B.C. Toll Authority operations the TV signal covering all collection booths could be transmitted to the head office so that a single man could monitor all collections.

Silver Threads

Drive for $65,000 Started by Aged

Victoria's Silver Threads Service last night undertook to raise $65,000 towards the $200,000 cost of a senior citizens' recreation centre in the central civic square development.

"To get the campaign under way immediately, the board of the Silver Threads Service is turning over $2,300 that has been raised by the service's volunteer corps and from private donations received during the past two years," Silver Threads president Owen Karn said.

The $65,000 represents one third of the cost. City hall and the provincial government will each provide the same amount. City council yesterday declined to ask the Silver Threads Service to raise the money.

Mr. Karn said one of the prime purposes in the foundation of the Silver Threads Service was to co-ordinate all senior citizen activities for the betterment of the older members of the community and raising of the $65,000 fitted this responsibility.

He said the appeal would be separate from the service's participation in the United Appeal and no door-to-door canvass is planned immediately.

Executive director of the service, Glen Hamilton said that if each of the area's 25,000 senior citizens donated $2 it would almost equal the total amount needed.

Film Festival Biggest and Best Ever

With the season scarcely more than half over, the Victoria International Film Festival has already exceeded total attendance for last season.

More than 1,900 people jammed in front of the Cameron Bandshell at Beacon Hill Park Wednesday night to send total attendance in the first 12 nights of the 21-night season to about 11,400.

Total attendance all season last year was some 10,490, said Paschal O'Toole, Victoria representative for the National Film Board. "And it was a good season."

He said Wednesday's 1,900 people—"the highest in B.C. and probably the highest for any one-night showing of documentary films in Canada"—also was a shot in the arm for B.C.

Each night is devoted to films from one place, and there had been a sort of informal competition going among festival workers to see which area would be the best drawing card.

Setting for last night's films, which outdrew all the other nights, was British Columbia.

Other favorites were Wales, 1,450; England, 1,350, and Scotland, 1,200.

Countries to display this week in the festival documentary films will be New Zealand and Japan Wednesday.

Programs begin at 8:30 p.m. and it is suggested patrons come early to be assured of a good seat.

Countries to be presented in future showings include the Republic of Ireland, Brazil, India, Italy, the United States and Canada.

With Empress

City Ponders Swapping Pool for Lawn

By TED SHACKLEFORD

City council is considering giving the Canadian Pacific Railway close to $500,000 worth of property to safeguard the lawns of the Empress Hotel from commercial development.

Negotiations between city representatives and CPR spokesmen resulted in a CPR suggestion that the city should swap its title to the site of the Crystal Garden for a title to the 100 feet of lawns in front of the Empress.

The lawns could then be proclaimed as a public park and thus protected from any possibility of commercial development for all time, Mayor R. B. Wilson told aldermen at yesterday's meeting of city council.

PUBLIC PARK
The city would be responsible for the upkeep of the area if it made the lawns a public park.

At present the city owns the site of the Crystal Garden and leases it to the CPR. At the expiration of the lease the land and the improvements on it—in this case the city's only covered public swimming pool and other facilities—revert to the city.

If the city swapped the land it would lose its title to the improvements as well as the site of the Crystal. One informed estimate of the value of the Crystal Garden and its site is close to $500,000.

City council is developing a special zoning bylaw to cover the Inner Harbor precinct, which requires 100-foot setbacks for buildings facing the Causeway—the width of the Empress lawns, but Mayor Wilson said yesterday such special zoning could be changed by a future council.

Not all members of city council favor the land swap which would give the city a park in the Inner Harbor at a cost of $500,000, in addition to cost of thousands of dollars yearly for upkeep, and would give the Empress much the same impressive sweep of lawns it now has.

One current suggestion is that the Capital Improvement District Commission should buy the Empress lawns as one of its projects.

"Permanent protection of that area in front of the hotel has been a worry to all of us," Mayor Wilson said yesterday. "The way it is zoned now it could be used for a gas station."

"The city, I suppose, would not want to operate the Crystal... so I would suggest that if you feel so inclined that you... negotiate further."

Air Fouling Cut in Half Says Young

Air pollution in the Gorge area has been cut in half since February, city manager Dennis Young said yesterday.

He said an air pollution measuring machine installed at Gorge and Jutland gives "positive evidence that there is a continuing improvement in the situation."

Residents at Gorge and Dunedin—one block away from the site of the measuring machine—contended over the weekend that there has been no improvement in the past year.

Kiddies' Derby Today

All city-sponsored playgrounds will be closed today, because all supervisors will be on duty at the Ogden Point breakwater for the children's fishing derby.

The derby starts at 1 p.m. and none of the children are to have lines in the water before then.

A weigh-in station will be located halfway along the breakwater.

Everyone who catches a fish will receive a prize, and when the derby ends at 4 p.m. the three children who have caught the heaviest fish will receive prizes of a bicycle, first place, skin diving gear for second and rod and reel for third place.

Parents are urged to accompany their children to the fishing derby.

Decision Tuesday On Sidney's Border

Sidney property owners will decide in a referendum Tuesday whether the village boundary will be moved northward to include Rest Haven Hospital and some 450 residents living in the adjacent area.

Sewage problems in the unsewered outside area prompted a petition signed by more than 80 per cent of the residents who wanted to be brought within the village boundary.

Sidney village commission prepared a bylaw authorizing the boundary change and set Tuesday as the date when Sidney owner-electors will decide how they feel about the boundary change.

800 ELIGIBLE
About 800 persons are eligible to vote. Ballots will be cast in the village office on First Street, between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. Sidney clerk A. W. Sharp will be returning officer.

Leaders in the community of 1,800 persons yesterday indicated their support for the referendum, although it was reported that there also was some opposition to it.

A. A. Cormack, chairman of the village commission, said "we've got to realize that before long the whole northern end of the peninsula will be municipalized—it's got to be someday."

He said that sanitation conditions in the area north of Sidney are reported in such serious condition that many residents will be forced to rebuild their septic tank systems if a sewer hookup is not made.

ONE-HALF MILE
About one-half-mile of roads are being worked on—McKenzie from Quadra to Cedar Hill Cross Road, and Cedar Hill Cross Road from McKenzie to Reynolds Street.

It will take a number of years to complete a direct route to the Gordon Head area but traffic which had been coming northwest on Cedar Hill Cross Road and piling up in the residential Nicholson area will now find an easier way of getting to Quadra, Mr. Life said.

$87,000 Project Started

An $87,000 road construction project on McKenzie Avenue and Cedar Hill Cross Road has been started by Saanich public works crews.

In future years, extension and reconstruction of these roads will provide easy access between the Trans-Canada Highway and the Gordon Head area.

But within a few weeks it will relieve a traffic bottleneck in the Quadra-Nicholson Streets area, Saanich municipal engineer Neville Life said yesterday.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: My heart aches for the young boy who wrote and said he was a chronic liar and didn't know how to stop. The poor lad said he never told lies that would hurt anybody. He just dreamed up stories to make himself seem more important or to make his humdrum life seem more glamorous.

I was like that when I was a youngster and I took my problem to a wonderful clergyman. He "cured" me. Perhaps the same technique will work for him. Here it is:

When you hear yourself weaving one of those fabulous yarns bring the story to an abrupt end with a ridiculous phrase such as this: "And then I shot myself and died." Smile and add, "Beat that one if you can."

This is an easy way of saying, "It was all in fun and I didn't mean it." —EX-PRE-VARICATOR.

Dear Ex: Thank you for the suggestion. It sounds workable and I hope the boy tries it.

Dear Ann Landers: Erma is a dear friend of whom I am extremely fond. The standing joke about her in our crowd is that she was an 11-month baby and has been late ever since.

Erma lives near me. She doesn't drive but I do, so that means I pick her up several times a week. She's one of those disorganized people who, no matter how far ahead she plans, she can't seem to get herself together on time. I have sat out in front of her house for as long as 25 minutes chewing my fingernails. Each time I tell myself I am never going to pick her up again. But she is such a lovely person I can't bring myself to do it.

Last week we arrived at a funeral 20 minutes late. This week we missed the door prize drawings at the Ladies Aid. I don't remember the last time I heard a meeting called to order. I discussed the problem with my husband last night. He said, "This is one for Ann Landers." I agree with him. Can you help? —NO NAILS NANCY.

Dear No Nails: Erma is not going to change unless she has to. And she doesn't have to so long as you continue to sit out in front and wait for her.

The day you tell her that you won't stop if she isn't out in front—then DO it—that will be the day when Erma pulls up her socks and gets herself ready on time. Until then—wear mittens.

Dear Ann Landers: I once read in your column that you thought it was perfectly all right for people to take home food from restaurants the food they were unable to eat at the table. What do you think of the following?

We attended a beautiful wedding last week. The woman next to us had a large beaded handbag almost the size of a shopping bag. After the dinner was served she wrapped up the rolls and put them in her handbag. She then got herself four pieces of wedding cake, wrapped them in paper napkins and put them in the bag "for the children."

Later in the evening when the dancing started, she dumped all the nuts into a plastic envelope which she had brought from home. Then she grabbed all the candy. The woman didn't leave one edible thing on that table.

When she noticed me looking at her she said, "I hate to waste anything." What is your opinion of this? —GOGGLE-EYED.

Dear Goggle: The woman had no right to clean up the table. It would have been permissible for her to ask the hostess if she might take an extra piece of wedding cake or two for her children, but it was downright boorish to swarm all over the rolls, nuts and candy.

Camp Equipment Defies Weather

By JILL ARLETT

At first glance, the summer "weather" seems to have put a damper on everything.

Office workers are dimly viewing their future holidays, vacationers watch the skies scornfully, and even tourists aren't whipping out their cameras with much enthusiasm.

Yet business is booming in a downtown store I visited yesterday—despite the rotten weather. Which is surprising because they keep a real summer seller—camping equipment.

Strangely enough, their sales are almost as good as last year. The manager attributes the steady sales to the fact that people probably have just as much fun camping in bad weather as in the sun.

Sounds ridiculous, you may say, but if you take a look around this store you'll see why any camping trip, rain or sun, could turn out to be a ball.

Apart from carrying the standard camping equipment such as tents, sleeping bags and stoves, the store is loaded with little gimmicks designed to make camping just a little bit better.

The pocket-sized air pump for blowing up air mattresses is a good example. It costs $9.95 and runs on your car battery—by plugging it into the place for the cigarette lighter. It will inflate such things as cushions, swimming pools, inner tubes and saves a lot of puffing if you've got five or six air mattresses to fill; every night.

Another camper's aid is a metal hanger which clips on to either a horizontal or vertical bar inside the tent. It has space for plenty of hangers and avoids the usual scattering of clothes all over the tent floor. Price is 99 cents.

Campers planning to take a trip for longer than a week would find the sleeping bag liners—selling here for $3.50—a real saving. Liner slips inside the sleeping bag and collects all the dirt and dampness inevitable on a camping expedition. To clean it, you simply whip it out and wash it.

As washing clothes and dishes seems to be one of the main headaches on a trip, a new camp griddle has been designed to save a lot of work over the camp stove.

It's a heavy aluminum griddle (with rounded corners for easy cleaning) which covers the top of an ordinary type Coleman stove. Priced at $3.95, it will serve as a skillet for almost anything: bacon and eggs, fish, hot dogs, steaks.

All of the other necessary camping supplies are available here: sleeping bags from $6.88 each to well-insulated terylene for $20, baby tents to huge family sized tents for about $85, outdoor stoves, air mattresses, etc.

If you're interested in seeing this selection of camping equipment, call EV 3-4111 for the name and location of this store.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Honeymoon in Seattle

Classically styled gown of peau de sole, adorned at the waist by a flat bow, was worn by Sally Irene Ebbs-Canavan for her recent marriage to Earl Goldwin Stewart. Bell-skirt was in short length and the bodice had a scoop neckline and long-fitted sleeves. A four-tier elbow-length veil misted from a headpiece centred with a bow. She carried a colonial bouquet of red roses and white carnations with trailing white satin streamers dotted with rosebuds.

Canon H. Butler officiated at the ceremony in St. George the Martyr Church. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. George Davis, 2070 Carrick Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Stewart, 2571 Musgrave Street. Mr. Davis gave his stepdaughter in marriage.

Standing baskets of white gladioli and yellow carnations were in the church and pews were marked by white roses and white streamers.

Matron of honor, Mrs. George Songhurst, and bridesmaid, Miss Judy Anne McEwen, wore bell-skirted gowns of white smocked nylon posed over pink and yellow taffeta respectively. Their miniature veils were held by toning pill-box headpieces and they carried colonial bouquets of carnations en tene with their gowns.

Jack Smith was best man and Ken Ebbs-Canavan, the usher.

At a reception in the Tally Ho Motor Hotel, baskets of white gladioli and yellow carnations flanked the head table which was centred with a three-tier cake trimmed with pink roses. Guests danced to organ music of Reg Stone.

George Songhurst proposed the toast.

For a honeymoon trip to Seattle, the bride chose a two-piece green Italian knit suit with black accessories and white gardenia.

Couple are living at 2580 Esplanade.

Sooke Fisherman Says

Salmon Trollers Can't Afford To Sit and Let Fish Go By

Troller fishermen who make their living while the salmon are running can't afford to sit back and let the fish go by during a fisheries' strike, a Sooke fisherman said yesterday.

Big companies with substantial backing don't have to worry about the salmon runs because their boats with nets

"can go out and catch all the fish they want in two weeks," charged Louie Planes, who calls himself "a putter fisherman" though he's been in the business for the past 30 years.

"I've got a big family—I've gotta feed them. I have to catch those fish," he said.

Mr. Planes said he has six boats 17 to 32 feet in length and that he has them out because "I can't go on waiting for the shore workers to settle their troubles."

He said he thinks too many fish will get through and ruin the run in four years, if the fishermen don't take them now.

"Fish got too thick up the rivers and in another four years there won't be anything left," Mr. Planes said.

Victorians Warned Of Postings

Two Victoria men have received advanced army postings—one in the medical corps and the other with the artillery—the army announced Thursday.

Lt. Col. R. A. Smilie has been named senior regional surgeon, New Brunswick sub-region, and commanding officer of Camp Gagetown station hospital.

Maj. R. M. Hemmingsen will soon be posted to the Fourth Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery at Camp Petawawa, Ont.

Another medical officer, Lt. Col. C. P. Holden, formerly of Montreal, will soon be appointed anesthetist at HMCS Naden, and Lt. Col. R. J. A. Robitaille, regional consultant in psychiatry at HMCS Naden, will soon be appointed commanding officer of Fort Churchill Military Hospital.

Norstad Sounds Pact Warning

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former NATO commander Gen. Lauris Norstad Thursday warned that the nuclear test ban treaty initiated by the United States, Britain and Russia "can be violated, unilaterally and perhaps without our knowledge."

Norstad said although the three powers will be "under a great compulsion to move forward, to take some steps forward" as a result of the treaty, "we have a right to be skeptical of the Soviet's word."

Ticking Not Funny

GREAT BEND, Kan. (UPI)—The passengers and crew aboard a Central Airlines plane got jittery Thursday when they heard a ticking noise emanating from a suitcase on a luggage rack.

One of the passengers—a young man not identified—suspiciously claimed the suitcase, opened it and turned off his electric toothbrush.

Symphony Grant Bid Turned Down

Expressing amazement at a request from Victoria Symphony Society for a special grant to help finance a visit of the National Youth Orchestra Aug. 14, city council yesterday turned thumbs down.

"It seems to me a little bit odd for an organization to make plans like this without any idea of how it is to be financed," Ald. J. L. W. McLean commented.

Ald. Austin Curtis added: "It seems strange a group of young people should be started across the country without any arrangements. It doesn't sound right to me."

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow moved that the Victoria Symphony Society request for a grant be refused and that individual members of council billet members of the visiting orchestra in their homes if possible.

Expropriation Bylaw

City Solicitor Ordered To Take Land Options

City council yesterday gave its solicitor, T. P. O'Grady, permission to take options on seven parcels of land needed for the extension of Rose Street from Queens to Bay Street, and also ordered preparation of a bylaw to expropriate the land.

Mayor R. B. Wilson told aldermen preparation of the expropriation bylaw did not stop council continuing negotiations with St. Andrew's and Caledonian Holding Company to buy the land.

Garden Notes

Year-Round Delight

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

I don't know who ever started the idea that the heathers are difficult plants to grow from seed. Three years ago I took a crack at the Erica and some of their heather relatives without too much hope as to the outcome, and to my delighted surprise, the seeds came up as readily as radishes.

Plants of the Erica family are among the most troublefree of any in the garden. Pests don't seem to be attracted to them, and I have never seen a smidgen of mildew, mould, leaf spot, or any of the other fungus infections that plague other plants and shrubs. The only time heaths have gone miffy on me is when I tried to grow them in a high-lime soil. The leaves became pale and anemic until I hocked them out and replanted them in beds of peaty soil.

Some Ericas are not so fussy and will tolerate a fair amount of lime without the symptoms of iron hunger — chlorosis — but even these easy-going kinds do better in soil which is on the acid side.

It is quite possible to grow acid-loving plants on a site which is naturally limey and those areas where the soil is full of oyster shell, but you have to do it in raised beds. It is no use at all just digging a hole and filling it with acid peat, for in no time at all the lime and limey water has impregnated the peat. Lime always works downward, and the only way to avoid contaminating the soil mixture is to keep it up on top.

The trick here is to make a box-like enclosure of bricks, concrete blocks, rocks or the like, and fill it with a mixture of peat moss and coarse-grained, lime-free sand. Plant up these raised beds with a variety of heathers — azaleas too — and they'll be as happy as mudlarks.

Some of the lime-tolerant heathers are King George, with dark red blossoms and blooming in mid-winter; Mrs. S. Doncaster, clear pink, mid-winter; Springwood White, with pure white flowers and blooming in February, and Winter Beauty, which is at its best in December, with rosy pink blossoms.

Some other good ones which must be grown in naturally acid soil or in raised beds are: Erica mackay! H. Maxwell, clear pink and blooming in July; Erica hybrida, pale pink and in bloom from November to April; Erica vagans Lyonesse, with white blossoms appearing off and on from August to October, and Erica mediterranea superba, deep rose pink, flowering in March.

As you can see, it is quite possible to have color in a heather garden every month of the year. Not only that, but they can be planted at any time of the year except when the ground is actually frozen or covered with snow. For an even more colorful effect, you could underplant the heaths with some of the small blue bulb flowers such as scilla, muscari and chionodoxa. The contrast between the lovely clear blue of these flowers and the soft pinks and reds of the heaths makes a most charming picture.

SHEILAH GRAHAM Reports from London

Dr. Ward Behind with Rent

LONDON (NANA)—Guess who rented the famous two-way mirror flat to Dr. Stephen Ward? 20th Century-Fox, that's who. When executive Larry East had to return to America, 20th's office here sold the rest of the lease to Dr. Ward, who produced impeccable references. He rarely paid the rent however and was taken to court three times. He now owes £600. They do say the chap is quite broke.

Sybil Burton is writing to friends here that she is very happy with her new life in New York, and she is spending the summer with her two daughters on Long Island. She is a most intelligent woman.

Stewart Granger and Stanley Baker have not cared for each other since they starred in Sodom and Gomorrah. When I told Stanley that Stewart was in Arizona, he replied, "I hope he stays there and you can quote me."

Jeanne Moreau, of Les Amants, The Victors, and Eva, has an 11-year-old son from her first marriage. But you rarely hear a word about him. Brigitte Bardot never seems to mention her son by Jacques Charrier. And Elizabeth Taylor does not see her four children often. Three of them attend school in Switzerland and only come to London during their vacations.

Ex-King Farouk is trying to latch on to a TV station in Rome. I am not sure he will improve the mediocre quality of television in Rome.

Tuesday Weld said some nasty things about New York after her return to Hollywood for Soldier in the Rain. But she now admits she left her heart behind in Gotham. "He's an actor but I can't tell you his name because he doesn't know it yet," I believe his initials are R.B.

Linda Christian is sighing into her empty jewel case because, she told me, "Lloyd's will not insure any future jewels I might buy." She lost most of those she collected during the past decade in two robberies, and she is having some trouble collecting the insurance money. Linda added that she has a picture with Peter Sellers on her film schedule.

Vivien Leigh is Sam Bronston's No. 1 choice for one of the two leading ladies in The Night Runners, which will star Stephen Boyd, James Mason, Sir Alec Guinness and probably David Niven. And Sophia Loren or Ava Gardner thrown in for good measure. How will you manage to keep the budget under $10,000,000, Sam?

Things are looking good for Alan Ladd at Paramount where he plays Nevada Smith in The Carpetbaggers. The studio for which he made millions of dollars from such profitable pictures as Shane, is offering Alan another long-term contract. Not at the old money, of course, but Alan has made no much during his 21-year-old movie career, he simply doesn't need very much more.

Peter Finch and Stephen Boyd plan to attend together the premiere here of Cleopatra. And the story behind the seemingly strange duo is that Finch was Caesar and Boyd, Anthony, when Walter Wanger was shooting the picture in London with Eusebio Martinelli directing. "We are going to see what we missed," grinned the first Anthony.

When I was at the Red Lion at Epsom last week for lunch with Robert Mitchum and Sam Wanamaker, I was told that Gary Cooper gave a farewell party here when he completed The Naked Edge. It was his farewell, unfortunately, for he never made another film.

CHARLES McDOWELL Gets—

Away from It All

KITTY HAWK, N.C. — For the first few days here in a cottage on a sand dune beside the Atlantic Ocean, we made a noble effort to keep up with the news of the world. Every morning we drove two miles to a store to pick up the papers when they were tossed off the bus from the mainland.

Then we brought the papers back to the cottage and tried to sort out the Russia-China controversy, but it kept getting all mixed up in our vacationing mind—especially when we tried to study it on the beach, where the sandflies were biting something fierce.

One day we didn't pick up the papers because we were taking the family to the Wright Brothers national memorial and museum at Kill Devil Hills, south of here on the Outer Banks. The exhibits and a lecture were intriguing. History seems to come easier than contemporary affairs to a vacationing mind.

We learned, among other things, that Wilbur and Orville Wright were great kite flyers. Before they made their first successful powered flights at Kill Devil Hills in 1903, the Wrights tested many of their theories with kites.

On the way back to the cottage, we stopped at the store but forgot to pick up the papers. We did think to buy a couple of kites.

Flying the kites out to sea from our sand dune, we accumulated a good bit of data that the Wrights must have acquired ahead of us. For example, eight feet of tall isn't nearly enough, and 12 feet isn't quite enough, to stabilize a 3-by-3-foot kite in the kind of winds that blow across these banks.

If we hadn't lost two kites in two days, we probably would have compiled definitive data on kite tails in a few more days, and then we would have been ready to move on to inventing the airplane.

As it was, we got two days behind on the newspapers, and the harsh words passing between the Russians and Chinese got mixed up inextricably.

There were other distractions, like our children.

Another thing that takes a considerable amount of a man's time on vacation is naps. We were mildly ashamed of our afternoon naps until we came to a reassuring passage in our vacation reading, The Sea and the Jungle by

H. M. Tomlinson. This gentle philosopher confessed that he had felt conscience pangs about naps until he cruised on a slow freighter from England to the Amazon, and up it.

Mr. Tomlinson found that he could sleep in the afternoon and when he woke up the ship would have survived his nap. We found the same thing about the Outer Banks; they did not require our wakeful attention.

The fact remained that we lost touch with the Russians, Chinese and all the rest. There was no television, thus no television news commentator to help us pretend we knew what was going on even when we didn't.

One night we did manage to get the old radio in the cottage to make a few sounds. It is a cranky thing, given to wheezing and fading and turning itself on and off. Through this radio, the outside world is an added apparition, dimly perceived.

Suddenly, briefly, a voice did come through loud and clear and full of its own importance. The voice was describing a baseball game. We listened for a while over the sound of the breakers below our sand dune, and then turned off the outside world.

Love Must Grow

Says Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

The picture we have of modern marriage in its large sense, the result of a Hollywood interpretation of the meaning and place of love in human life. According to the films, the marriage story follows some such sequence:

Boy meets girl; they fight; they make up; they argue; they make up; they battle; they return; they fall madly in love; and they marry.

What happens after is barely touched on by the hazy memories of the cinema. Only the romantic storm and stress, the peaks and the valleys of the pre-marital period, seem worth depicting.

In the Hollywood version of modern marriage, before one weds — if it is to be the "real thing" — he must fall madly in love. What follows once marriage occurs, seems much less important. After all, they are always un-marry and then re-marry!

The flippancy of such a suggestion is the direct result of the fundamental definition of love, in our culture. We think of love chemically or biologically.

The physical proportions are the significant measurements of marital attractions. The prettiest girl — one who can best display her endearing young charms — is more likely to ensnare her willing "victim."

The centering of the romantic attention principally in the physical tends to distort the meaning of love. Ironically, the focusing of so much attention upon the size and shape of the human form as in index to marital happiness, often leads us away from true human fulfillment.

"He's not the man I married!" "She's no longer the same girl I once knew!" These are the insipid but necessary corollaries to a marriage founded principally on a biochemical or anatomical basis, in the dimmer aftermath of an earlier glow.

It is difficult for a love-relationship in marriage to deepen and to grow if we lead ourselves to believe that we must reach the peak of happiness before we've even started out.

Real marital love grows with the sharing of life; it develops with sacrifice, hardship, tears, even with pain. It doesn't come easily as a simple, fairyland Hollywood film would have us believe.

There is romance to marriage — but not the romance of the body, alone. The lasting, lovely romance grows out of the human spirit.

The lasting, lovely romance is only when the spirit sanctifies the material side of life, when the adventure of living together reaches far beyond physical glorification that love abides. It abides then, because there is so much more to give when we learn how to share.

The body wears out — but the soaring spirit of man can continue to grow strong, and to stay sweet.

West Coast Coho Landings Down One-Third in June

June coho landings off the West Coast of Vancouver Island down one-third from the same period last year.

Area 23, off the West Coast of the island, again, this year, produced the most coho with 137,000 fish compared with 198,000 fish a year ago, according to the summary of fishing in B.C. for June by the department of fisheries.

"Spring salmon landings were up 7.5 per cent from June, 1962, with both trawlers and net fishermen improving their catches over last year," the report said.

"Sockeye landings were less than half those of the same month a year ago, totalling 529,000 pounds, with the decrease caused by a later opening this year in most of the area," the report said.

"Landings of halibut by Canadian fishermen at B.C. ports were down nine per cent from June, 1962."

"Herring landings totalled

3,800 tons, up 17 per cent from June, 1962, with most of the fish being taken in the upper east coast (area 12) and lower east coast (area 17 and 18)," the report said.

Fishermen Protest

Signs of Split In Strike

Sellers Defy Board

VANCOUVER (CP)—Striking B.C. fishermen said Wednesday they will defy a National Fisheries Board order not to sell fish on two federal government wharves.

"To sleep as they'll have to get court orders and evictions," said Homer Stevens, secretary-treasurer of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union.

Strikers

Warrant Disturbs Fish Sale

NANAIMO—A booming fish sale in aid of striking fishermen was interrupted here Thursday morning when Harbor Commissioner John Dunham, flanked by RCMP officers, served the sale organizer with a warrant. (See picture, Page 11.)

The warrant served on Bill MacDonald comes under harbor commission bylaws stating that no goods or merchandise can be sold upon the harbor properties without the consent of the commissioners.

The sale was being carried out on Fisherman's Wharf and Mr. Dunham indicated that because permission had not been sought prior to the sale it would certainly not be granted.

The sale is scheduled to continue this morning and Mr. MacDonald will appear in court at 9:30 a.m.

Union Bay

Pulp Mill Hope

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd. wants to build a pulp mill at Union Bay on Vancouver Island.

All it needs is a partner with money, the markets and the technical know-how.

There was no indication at the company's annual meeting Thursday that it had this.

The company has long proposed construction of the mill.

NO AGREEMENT

President Norman R. Whittall said at the meeting: "We have for some little time been discussing the possibility of becoming associated with a partner who can assist us in the marketing of the output and could help both technically and financially in the construction of a pulp mill, but to date no agreement has been reached."

First signs of a split among workers idled by the 12-day B.C. fishing industry strike appeared yesterday when union members showed up in Victoria as part of a delegation seeking government intervention.

Five members of the striking United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union were among the 13-man Vancouver Island delegation which descended unannounced on the office of Labor Minister Peterson.

The delegation charged that fishermen were being denied the democratic right to vote on the latest offer made to the union by the fishing companies and they asked the minister to step into the dispute.

Mr. Peterson also met with officials of the Fisheries Association, bargaining agent for the companies.

As a result, the minister has called a meeting of both sides for 10 a.m. today under the chairmanship of chief conciliation officer Reg Clements.

OPENING MOVE

It will be the opening move by the government to end a dispute which has idled nearly 10,000 workers.

Intervention of the labor department can only be on an informal basis because it has no official jurisdiction.

Mr. Peterson explained that this was because, strictly speaking, the strike does not constitute a labor dispute.

PRICE OF FISH

He said it is actually a contract disagreement over the price of fish between buyers and vendors.

Most members of yesterday's unofficial delegation came from Nanaimo and Campbell River.

Nanaimo spokesman Larry Grais said the decision to come to Victoria had been made only a few hours before.

50 PER CENT

Of fishermen he had talked to, about 80 per cent wanted the government to step into the picture.

He said the union had refused to let its members vote on a new offer which embodies price increases.

Bryan Berg, a Nanaimo member of the UFAWU, was critical of union leadership.

"We want our democratic right to vote," he told reporters.

"Our main concern is that we feel there is something wrong with the union and they are not doing their job for the members."

"We want to vote and they say no."

He complained of Communist influence in the union.

IN TROUBLE

When a member had gone to Vancouver after getting into trouble with the UFAWU for moving his boat while the strike was in progress officials just sat around "reading Communist magazines."

Frank Wilson, a Campbell River man, said independent trawlers and gillnetters are "laughed at" by the union if they try to complain.

Trade Minister Bonner said in the meeting with the delegation in Mr. Peterson's office.

"We are getting increasing concern from ordinary people that they have no opportunity of expressing their opinion," he said afterwards.

Convicts Shoot Way Out

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lethal guerrillas and common convicts shot their way out of a Canadian prison Thursday in a chain of violence that spread terror through the Vancouver Island capital.

Unofficial reports said at least four persons were killed and more than 40 wounded. One hundred prisoners were reported to have fled, of whom 16 were recaptured.

Rioting at the noon meal, hundreds of the 500 prisoners ran through the penitentiary, opening cells of comrades and overpowering guards, officials reported.

The mob stripped 40 guards of their uniforms, then poured through a hole in the wall.

'Cut the Gordian Knot' Diefenbaker Demands

New Target In Talks On Columbia

OTTAWA (CP)—The new target for starting Columbia River talks with the United States is perhaps the middle of next week. External Affairs Minister Paul Martin informed the Commons Wednesday.

He said the Canadian and British Columbia governments have just concluded another "satisfactory" meeting.

He did not spell out details but apparently the two governments discussed changes to be sought in the 60-year hydro and flood-control treaty signed with the U.S. but yet to be ratified by this country. Earlier, they signed an agreement between themselves.

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker demanded Thursday that the government "cut the Gordian knot" and drop the budget's controversial sales tax on building materials and production machinery.

But he told the Commons he doesn't mean Finance Minister Gordon should be fired "because I don't know what we'd do without the mistakes he has made."

Leading off the third day of opposition attack on the tax announced in the June 13 budget, Mr. Diefenbaker said his Progressive Conservatives intend to continue talking about it and to vote against it.

FORCE VOTE

The Conservatives would propose amendments to the budget's sales tax legislation and force a vote on the bill itself.

"I again ask the government to take one more look at this and remove it from the list of resolutions," said Mr. Diefenbaker in a blistering attack.

Mr. Gordon, terming it a "quiet and tolerant speech," said it showed that Mr. Diefenbaker's "well-known talents for Continued on Page 3"

Red Raiders Kill 18 In Hamlet

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist soldiers killed 18 government troops in fighting during which they raided a strategic hamlet and derailed a train, informed military sources said Wednesday.

The South Vietnamese air force claimed that 60 of the Viet Cong attackers were killed in air strikes which followed the fighting 45 miles north of Saigon.

Government forces lost a significant number of weapons, according to the preliminary reports.

The Big Three Pledge

'No Tests—for All Time'

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Big Three partial nuclear test ban treaty pledges continued negotiations to discontinue "all tests . . . for all time."

The five-article treaty, which diplomatic observers here labelled a "basically simple document," contained what appeared to be an "escape clause" permitting resumption of tests by signatory powers if nuclear tests by nations not participating threaten their security. It also contained an atomic anti-proliferation clause.

The treaty also made these points:

● That the signatories desired to see continuing communication of an environment.

● That the signatories had as their "principal" aim speeding disarmament under strict international control.

● That the treaty should not "prejudice" conclusion of a full treaty, including the banning of underground explosions.

● That the parties refrain from encouraging, assisting or participating in any nuclear explosion anywhere.

● The treaty shall be of unlimited duration.

● The treaty should be registered pursuant to Article 102 of the UN Charter.

● The treaty shall be open to all states.

We'll Sign Now—Pearson

FRENCH TEST BAN MARTIN GOAL

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday Canada is ready now to sign the East-West nuclear test ban and highly-placed informants said External Affairs Minister Martin may try to get France to sign, too.

France has boycotted the 18-nation disarmament talks in Geneva.

Mr. Martin, who speaks French, held private talks here with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville during the May NATO ministerial meeting. In a speech in Quebec City last month he hinted that Canada would be willing to act as a mediator between France and the United States as it had sometimes between Britain and the U.S. The hint raised considerable interest in the French foreign office.

DO SOMETHING

During a Commons all-party welcome for the test ban initiated in Moscow Thursday, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Canada should be able to do something to bring France into the agreement. Mr. Diefenbaker said he feels Mr. Martin could do a great deal in this regard through talks with President de Gaulle.

Mr. Pearson said the test ban agreement will remove a major source of harmful radiation and that it holds out the prospect for further improvement in East-West relations.

FIRST STEP

However, the agreement was "no more than a first step." Underground nuclear tests still had to be included and it was imperative that the agreement receive world-wide support to make it effective.

The agreement was "only one small segment" of the problems involved in working out general disarmament, which would require prolonged and patient effort.

GREAT PROSPECTS

"Significant changes in the thinking of the Soviet leaders, of which there are signs, could hold out still greater prospects for a far-reaching East-West settlement," Mr. Pearson said.

But it would be naive and "even dangerous" to hold illusions that all barriers to a genuine detente were down.

Canada would use its influence to the utmost to help press for negotiations aimed at a broader international understanding.

Initials Mark Big Step

MOSCOW (AP-Reuters)—The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union agreed in a treaty initiated Thursday to end nuclear testing in the atmosphere, outer space and under water. They immediately hailed their unprecedented accord as a major breakthrough toward easing cold war tensions.

In the agreement, climaxing arduous negotiations almost as old as the atomic age itself, the three powers also affirmed their determination to continue striving for a complete ban on nuclear testing and implied they will give no nuclear aid to nations that do not go along.

NEAR FUTURE

The Big Three foreign ministers—America's Dean Rusk, Britain's Earl of Home and Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko—will sign the treaty in Moscow in "the near future," a communiqué said.

Details of the treaty were hammered out by Gromyko, Averell Harriman, U.S. under-secretary of state for political affairs, and British Science Minister Lord Hailsham in talks which began here July 15.

THREE WEEKS

Hailsham, talking to reporters at the British Embassy, suggested three weeks from now as a likely date for signing the treaty.

He said it would in fact be signed at a time "most convenient to all . . . not less than one week, not more than three."

DE GAULLE COOL

With notable exceptions, leaders of East and West hailed the Moscow announcement as a step on the road to peace. Home called the agreement "the first of any substance which the West has been able to make with the Russians" since the Austrian treaty of 1955.

But in Paris, President de Gaulle's government reaffirmed that it would not be bound by the agreement in its efforts to

After Next Week Who Will Own

the BCE?

By TERRY HAMMOND
Columnist Legislative Reporter

Who will own the B.C. Electric after next week?

That is the $171,934,032 question which is keeping B.C. cabinet ministers awake nights.

It is a question which weighs heavily in Premier Bennett's decision not to go to Ottawa for a federal-provincial conference this week.

It is also a question which has escaped some of the urgency to launch new high-level B.C.-Washington negotiations over Columbia River power sales to the U.S.

Premier Bennett doesn't want to be very far away from the fold when the answer is supplied.

The anxiously-awaited judgment on B.C. Electric expropriation reopens with Chief Justice Sherwood Lett of B.C.'s Supreme Court.

What decisions he has reached as a result of the marathon proceedings over which he presided from May 1, 1962, to Feb.

25, 1963 are known only to he and his personal staff.

But because of his elevation to the post of Chief Justice of British Columbia, effective Aug. 1, he has only six days of grace before he must hand down his judgment—after that, so the official thinking goes, he loses Supreme Court jurisdiction.

His judgment will stem from a case which many believe was the most complex of any in the history of Canadian law and one of the costliest.

Unofficial estimates place the cost of the case so far at nearly $1,000,000.

Official transcript of the proceedings fills 146 volumes containing 4,500,000 words.

Vital Court Decision Must Be Made by August 1

Weekend at Shawnigan Lake To See Water Ski Contests

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—Competing and standing water skiers this weekend will skim across Shawnigan Lake and 100 aqua experts are expected to take part in the British Columbia Open championships on the eastern shore of the lake in front of the Mountain View summer resort.

Secretary Shirley Crowe of the Victoria Aqua Ski Club, which sponsors the event, said more than 50 skiers from Vancouver Island will participate and others will come from different Canadian centres and the United States.

The Victoria club will turn out in full force, Miss Crowe said.

"It is the biggest meet of its kind British Columbia has ever seen."

CROWD EXPECTED

Carefully preparing the weekend competition, the Victoria club built a new jump and a new course for slalom classes according to the requirements of the Canadian Water Skiers' Association. The expected large crowd of spectators can be accommodated at the Victoria club's property, leased yearly from MacMillan, Moedel and Powell River Company Ltd.

Some of the top-notch water skiers to perform will be: John Godfrey, Canadian men's jumping champion from Vancouver; Clint Ward, Canadian slalom champion and barefoot champion from Toronto; Dr. Low West, U.S. veteran jumping champion from Seattle; Bill Hughes, Vancouver Island slalom champion from Victoria.

Another Victoria club member, Cliff Johnson, who is the Vancouver Island jumping champion, will attempt to reach the 100-foot mark.

One of the highlights of the stunt displays will be kite-flying demonstrated by Victoria Aqua Ski Club president, Chuck Dumaresq, who will be sailing 30 feet above the lake with his large wings.

Mr. Dumaresq is the only water skier on Vancouver Island who has been carrying out this daring stunt.

Miss Crowe said sufficient safety measures will meet all eventualities during the championship and stunt displays and all skiers are required to wear life-jackets and jumpers special jumping vests.

The championship event will start Saturday at 8 a.m. and end Sunday at 5 p.m. The list of the various classes consists of: Slalom for junior girls and boys, women, men and veteran skiers, and jumping and tricks for the same groups.

Fisherman Charged

Sale of fish by striking United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union was halted briefly at Fishermen's Wharf, Nanaimo, by visit of Harbourmaster John Dunham (bareheaded in centre above) and RCMP officers. Later William MacDonald, barely visible behind officer at right, was summoned for illegal sale of fish without harbor commission permission. Boat R.P.7, left, had 1,000 sockeye salmon for sale. Ferry Summons Issued

NANAIMO — Malcolm McGregor, of Nanaimo, has been summoned to appear July 30 on a charge of theft in connection with reports of shortages in receipts at the B.C. Toll Authority terminal at Nanaimo.

An RCMP investigation was ordered by the attorney-general's department after former terminal manager Jack Washer charged in a Colonist interview that a toll collector who had admitted theft was being protected from prosecution.

Mr. Washer was fired last month. He has appealed for a hearing on his dismissal before the Civil Service Commission on the grounds that he was only dismissed because he "knew too much".

The accused has been associated with sport in the city for years and joined the staff of the B.C. Toll Authorities about a year ago.

Mr. Washer's appeal is scheduled for Aug. 12. If at that time he is not satisfied with the ruling of the commission he may make a final appeal to a civil service board of reference.

DUNCAN — Fifth annual summer painting class for children, sponsored by the Cowichan Community Arts Council, will be held Aug. 12 to 16. It is open for all ages but two groups will be formed.

Youngsters under 12 years will visit various spots in this district during their lessons and those 12 and older will assemble in the Maple Bay Road barn studio of Arnolf Burrell, who will instruct both groups.

The over 12-year section will be divided into two groups. One will visit various spots in this district during their lessons and those 12 and older will assemble in the Maple Bay Road barn studio of Arnolf Burrell, who will instruct both groups.

PORT ALBERNI — Thieves kicked open the rear door of the Taste Freeze on Redford Street sometime early Wednesday morning and stole 20 packages of cigarettes.

Police said there was no money in the cash register at the time of the break-in.

Owner Adolph Zewenluk discovered the theft at about 11 a.m. Wednesday.

DUNCAN — Formation of an air cadet group here has come closer to reality after 27 boys have put in their applications but another 23 are needed to meet minimum requirement for a charter. A campaign is planned to drum up enough interest.

The project was sparked by the Cowichan Branch, Royal Canadian Legion. The sponsoring committee includes: Phil Johnston, Mrs. Al La Fontaine, Al Ellington, Martin Britten, Jack Flanagan, Bob Waddy and Ken MacDonald.

DUNCAN — Police court: D. R. Broseau, Vancouver, and G. G. Lincoln, Duncan, speeding, $15 each; L. R. Shreen, Duncan, overwidth vehicle, $22; Wilhelm Binder, Duncan, failing to stop for pedestrian in crosswalk, $12; M. L. Huston, Tofino, causing disturbance by fighting, $25.

Mr. Burrell is hoping to get a professional critic from Victoria to judge at the children's painting class exhibition at his studio, Aug. 22.

Spokesman for the local arts council, Vera Powley, said the painting classes for youngsters have been very successful in the past. Two years ago 50 and last year 35 children participated in the instruction and the cost of the five-day course is kept to a minimum. More detailed information, registration forms and supplies may be obtained at Dobson's Paint Supply.

FANNY BAY — Rev. Richard Mugford last Sunday bade farewell to his St. Catherine's congregation at Fanny Bay and Holy Trinity congregation of Cumberland.

After the service, Cumberland members presented him with an authentic "miner's lamp" of the type used in the Cumberland coal mines in the early 1900s. The Fanny Bay residents gave him a studio desk lamp.

Mr. Mugford expressed his appreciation of the friendly association he had had with the two congregations during his two years in the parishes. He has now left for Victoria, where he will be assistant pastor at St. Saviour's Anglican Church.

Rev. J. S. Lord will be concentrating on still life and portraiture.

Closed Circuit TV System

Do-It-Yourself Detection

'Big Brother' Watching the Toll Takers

Big Brother is watching B.C. government ferry service toll-takers.

TV cameras have been placed at the Swartz Bay terminal's toll booth—one with its eye on the cash register and another on passing cars.

The electronic booth sleuth becomes a do-it-yourself detection kit for ferry passengers who can view the TV images on receivers set up in waiting rooms.

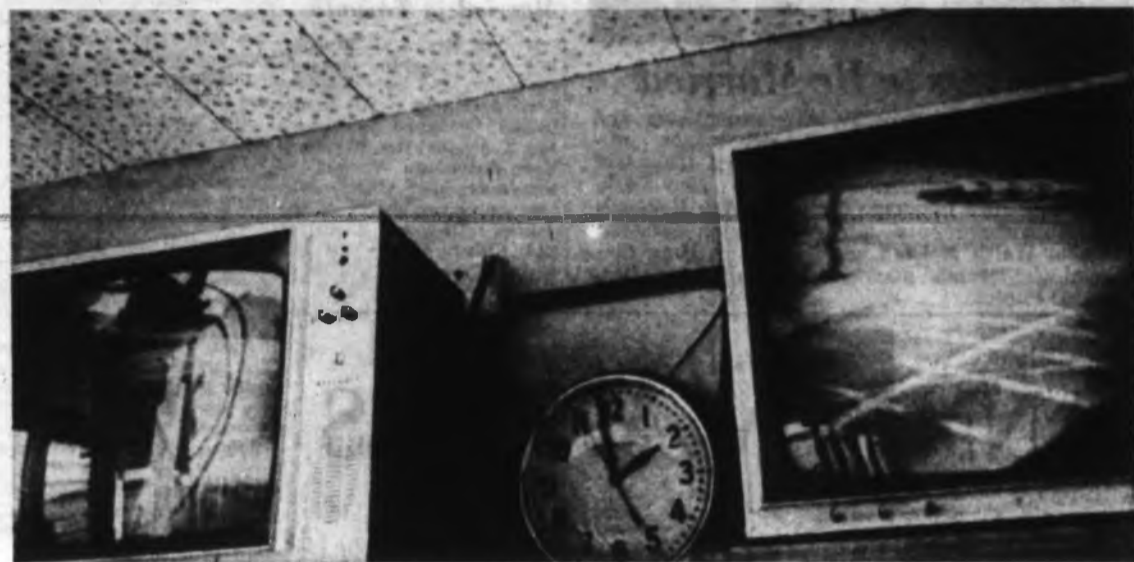

No Re-runs

The ensuing program may not be very entertaining but at least there will be no re-runs.

A ferry official said the monitoring system is being tried on an experimental basis. If it is successful it will probably be duplicated at other terminals.

The closed-circuit TV installation is only one part of a new program of vigilance at toll authority terminals which came on the heels of toll theft allegations at Nanaimo.

The moves are designed to bolster a toll-collection system which a former Nanaimo terminal manager for the government ferries described as an invitation to theft.

—Ryan Bros.

TV action is screened in terminal coffee shop, where public can view system in action.

He Chose Wrong Car

DUNCAN—The big mistake T. E. Lamb of Lake Cowichan made Wednesday night came when he jumped into a car which was stopped at a red traffic signal light in downtown Duncan and invited the driver to go somewhere to have a drink. He had jumped into a police car in which he was driven straight to the police station and looked for being intoxicated. Subsequently he was fined $10 in police court.

Sick Fisherman Flown From Tofino to Seattle

TOFINO—A Bodan of Seattle, crew member of the fishing vessel Anne, was brought to Tofino General Hospital Thursday morning by the Tofino lifeboat in response to a call from the boat. Later Dr. H. R. McDiarmid decided that the man, suffering from an infection, should be flown out to Seattle. The U.S. Coast Guard sent in a seaplane for the flight.

Decision Tuesday On Sidney's Border

Sidney property owners will decide in a referendum Tuesday whether the village boundary will be moved northward to include Rest Haven Hospital and some 450 residents living in the adjacent area.

Sewage problems in the unsewered outside area prompted a petition signed by more than 80 per cent of the residents who wanted to be brought within the village boundary.

Sidney village commission prepared a bylaw authorizing the boundary change and set Tuesday as the date when Sidney voters would decide how they feel about the boundary change.

800 ELIGIBLE
About 800 persons are eligible to vote. Ballots will be cast in the village office on First Street, between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. Sidney clerk A. W. Sharp will be returning officers.

Leaders in the community of 1,800 persons yesterday indicated their support for the referendum, although it was reported that there also was some opposition to it.

A. A. Cormack, chairman of the village commission, said "we've got to realize that before long the whole northern end of the peninsula will be municipalized—it's got to be someday."

He said that sanitation conditions in the area north of Sidney are reported in such serious condition that many residents will be forced to rebuild their septic tank systems if a sewer hookup is not made yesterday.

ONE-HALF MILE

About one-half-mile of roads are being worked on—McKenzie from Quadra to Cedar Hill Cross Road, and Cedar Hill Cross Road from McKenzie to Reynolds Street.

It will take a number of years to complete a direct route to the Gordon Head area but traffic which had been coming northwest on Cedar Hill Cross Road and piling up in the residential Nicholson Street area, said municipal engineer Neville Lyle said yesterday.

$87,000 Project Started

An $87,000 road construction project on McKenzie Avenue and Cedar Hill Cross Road has been started by Sanich public works crew.

In future years, extension and reconstruction of these roads will provide easy access between the Trans-Canada Highway and the Gordon Head area.

But within a few weeks it will relieve a traffic bottleneck in the Quadra-Nicholson Street area, said municipal engineer Neville Lyle said yesterday.

Air Fouling Cut in Half Manager Says

Air pollution in the Gorge area has been cut in half since February, city manager Dennis Young said yesterday.

He said an air pollution measuring machine installed at Gorge and Jutland gives "positive evidence that there is a continuing improvement in the situation."

Residents at Gorge and Dunedin—one block away from the site of the measuring machine—contended over the weekend that there has been no improvement in the past year.

Kiddies' Derby Today

All city-sponsored playgrounds will be closed today, because all supervisors will be on duty at the Ogden Point Breakwater for the children's fishing derby.

The derby starts at 1 p.m. and none of the children are to have lines in the water before then.

A weigh-in station will be located about halfway along the breakwater.

Everyone who catches a fish will receive a prize, and when the derby ends at 4 p.m. the three children who have caught the heaviest fish will receive prizes of a bicycle for first place, skin diving gear for second and rod and reel for third place.

Parents are urged to accompany their children to the fishing derby.

'Pay TV' Comes To B.C.

"Pay TV" comes to British Columbia as closed-circuit television checks B.C. Toll Authority ticket agents and cars at Swartz Bay. Employee George Hurry, himself target for one camera, stands by second which films passing cars. —(Ryan Bros.)

New signs urge passengers to make sure they get toll receipt.

No Check

He claimed there was no check on the honesty of toll-takers because no accurate count of cars and passengers was ever made aboard the vessels and no ticket collection system was used.

The ex-manager said the obvious technique for thefts was for a toll-taker to hold back the passenger's receipt after ringing up a sale, then issue the receipt to another passenger without ringing up a sale.

To block this possibility the ferry service has erected big new signs urging passengers to be sure they get a receipt so that they can produce it later if it is called for.

Periodic checks are to be made among passengers to see that receipts have been issued.

Not to Spy

A ferry official said the new security program is not so much to spy on employees as to reassure the public that toll money is being properly handled.

The TV equipment is being leased from B.C. Telephone Co. An official said that if the system is adopted throughout B.C. Toll Authority operations the TV signal covering all collection booths could be transmitted to the head office so that a single man could monitor all collections.

Silver Threads

Drive for $65,000 Started by Aged

Victoria's Silver Threads Service last night undertook to raise $65,000 towards the $200,000 cost of a senior citizens' recreation centre in the downtown civic square development.

"To get the campaign under way immediately, the board of the Silver Threads Service is turning over $2,500 that has been raised by the service's volunteer corps and from private donations received during the past two years," Silver Threads president Owen Karn said.

The $65,000 represents one third of the cost. City hall and the provincial government will each provide the same amount. City council yesterday declined to ask the Silver Threads Service to raise the money. Mr. Karn said one of the prime purposes in the foundation of the Silver Threads Service was to co-ordinate all senior citizen activities for the betterment of the older members of the community and raising of the $65,000 fitted this responsibility.

He said the appeal would be separate from the service's participation in the United Appeal and no door-to-door canvass is planned immediately.

Executive director of the service, Glen Hamilton said that if each of the area's 25,000 senior citizens donated $2 it would almost equal the total amount needed.

Film Festival Biggest and Best Ever

With the season scarcely more than half over, the Victoria International Film Festival has already exceeded total attendance for last season.

More than 1,900 people jammed in front of the Cameron Bandshell at Beacon Hill Park Wednesday night to send total attendance in the first 12 nights of the 21-night season to about 11,400. Total attendance all season last year some 10,400, said Paschal O'Toole, Victoria representative for the National Film Board. "And it was a good season."

He said Wednesday's 1,900 people—"the highest in B.C. and probably the highest for any one-night showing of documentary films in Canada"—also was a shot in the arm for B.C.

Each night is devoted to films from one place, and there had been a sort of informal competition going among festival workers to see which area would be the best drawing card.

Setting for last night's films, which outdrew all the other nights, was British Columbia.

Other favorites were Wales, 1,450; England, 1,350, and Scotland, 1,200.

Countries on display this week in the festival documentary films will be New Zealand and Monday, Australia Tuesday and Japan Wednesday.

Programs begin at 8:30 p.m. and it is suggested patrons come early to be assured of a good seat.

Countries to be presented in future showings include the Republic of Ireland, Brazil, India, Italy, the United States and Canada.

B.C. Fishing Strike

FIRST SIGNS OF SPLIT

Sellers Defy Board

VANCOUVER (CP)—Striking B.C. fishermen said Wednesday they will defy a National Harbours Board order not to sell fish on two federal government wharves.

"To stop us they'll have to get court orders and evict us," said Homer Stevens, secretary-treasurer of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union.

Strikers

Warrant Disturbs Fish Sale

NANAIMO—A booming fish sale in aid of striking fishermen was interrupted here Thursday morning when Harbor Commissioner John Dunham, flanked by RCMP officers, served the sale organizer with a warrant.

The warrant served on Bill MacDonald comes under harbor commission bylaws stating that no goods or merchandise can be sold upon the harbor properties without the consent of the commissioners.

The sale was being carried out on Fisherman's Wharf and Mr. Dunham indicated that because permission had not been sought prior to the sale it would certainly not be granted.

BOAT FUNDS

The sale was staged in an effort to boost funds for striking members of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union.

Eager buyers crowded the docks as the sale got under way. Shortly after 10 a.m. more than half the stock had been sold.

The sale is scheduled to continue this morning and Mr. MacDonald will appear in court at 9:30 a.m.

On Page 5 today, Cassandra gives some idea of the ramifications and reverberations of the Profumo affair which, he says, are without parallel in British history. Convicts Shoot Way Out

CARACAS (AP)—Leftist guerrillas and common convicts shot their way out of a Caracas prison Thursday in a chain of violence that spread terror through the Venezuelan capital.

Unofficial reports said at least four persons were killed and more than 30 wounded. One hundred prisoners were reported to have fled, of whom 16 were recaptured.

Rioting at the noon meal, hundreds of the 900 prisoners ran through the penitentiary, opening cells of comrades and overpowering guards, officials reported.

The mob stripped 40 guards of their uniforms, then poured through a hole in the wall.

The Big Three Pledge

'No Tests—for All Time'

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Big Three partial nuclear test ban treaty pledges continued negotiations to discontinue "all tests . . . for all time."

The five-article treaty, which diplomatic observers here labelled a "basically simple document," contained what appeared to be an "escape clause" permitting resumption of tests by signatory powers if nuclear tests by nations not participating threaten their security. It also contained an atomic anti-proliferation clause.

The treaty also made these points:

- That the signatories desired to end radioactive contamination of the environment.
- That the signatories had as their "principal" aim speeding disarmament under strict international control.
- That the treaty should not "pre-judge" conclusion of a full treaty, including the banning of underground explosions.

- That the parties refrain from encouraging, causing or participating in any nuclear explosions anywhere.
- The treaty shall be of unlimited duration.
- The treaty should be registered pursuant to Article 102 of the UN Charter.
- The treaty shall be open to all states.

We'll Sign Now—Pearson

French N-Test Ban Martin Goal

Initials Mark Big Step

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday Canada is ready now to sign the East-West nuclear test ban and highly-placed informants said External Affairs Minister Martin may try to get France to sign, too.

France has boycotted the 18-nation disarmament talks in Geneva.

Mr. Martin, who speaks French, held private talks here with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville during the May NATO ministerial meeting. In a speech in Quebec City last month he hinted that Canada would be willing to act as a mediator between France and the United States as it had sometimes between Britain and the U.S. The hint raised considerable interest in the French foreign office.

DO SOMETHING

During a Commons all-party welcome for the test ban initiated in Moscow Thursday, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Canada should be able to do something to bring France into the agreement. Mr. Diefenbaker said he feels Mr. Martin could do a great deal in this regard through talks with President de Gaulle.

Mr. Pearson said the test ban agreement will remove a major source of harmful radiation and that it holds out the prospect for further improvement in East-West relations.

FIRST STEP

However, the agreement was "no more than a first step." Underground nuclear tests still had to be included and it was imperative that the agreement receive world-wide support to make it effective.

The agreement was "only one small segment" of the problems involved in working out general disarmament, which would require prolonged and patient effort.

GREAT PROSPECTS

"Significant changes in the thinking of the Soviet leaders, of which there are signs, could hold out still greater prospects for a far-reaching East-West settlement," Mr. Pearson said.

But it would be naive and "even dangerous" to hold illusions that all barriers to a genuine détente were down.

Canada would use its influence to the utmost to help press for negotiations aimed at a broader international understanding.

MOSCOW (AP-Reuters)—The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union agreed in a treaty initiated Thursday to end nuclear testing in the atmosphere, outer space and under water. They immediately hailed their unprecedented accord as a major breakthrough toward easing cold war tensions.

In the agreement, climaxing arduous negotiations almost as old as the atomic age itself, the three powers also affirmed their determination to continue striving for a complete ban on nuclear testing and implied they will give no nuclear aid to nations that do not go along.

Macmillan Cheered

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, last night received a standing ovation from both Laborites and Conservatives for his role in the partial nuclear test ban treaty.

It was a tremendous political boost for Macmillan whose government was shaken badly by the scandal involving his war minister with playgirl Christine Keeler.

Japan Happy

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan, the only nation ever to suffer an atomic attack, Wednesday welcomed agreement on a partial nuclear test ban in Moscow.

The foreign office said the agreement "is for Japan, which has long advocated an early agreement for banning nuclear tests, a very auspicious event. We wish to pay our respects to the three (signatory) nations for their great efforts."

With notable exceptions, leaders of East and West hailed the Moscow announcement as a step on the road to peace. Home called the agreement "the first of any substance which the West has been able to make with the Russians" since the Austrian treaty of 1955.

But in Paris, President de Gaulle's government reaffirmed that it would not be bound by the agreement in its efforts to

'Cut the Gordian Knot' Diefenbaker Demands

New Target In Talks On Columbia

OTTAWA (CP)—The new target for starting Columbia River talks with the United States is perhaps the middle of next week, External Affairs Minister Paul Martin informed the Commons Wednesday.

He said the Canadian and British Columbia governments have just concluded another "satisfactory" meeting.

He did not spell out details but apparently the two governments discussed changes to be sought in the 60-year hydro and flood-control treaty signed with the U.S. but yet to be ratified by this country. Earlier, they signed an agreement between themselves.

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker demanded Thursday that the government "cut the Gordian knot" and drop the budget's controversial sales tax on building materials and production machinery.

But he told the Commons he doesn't mean Finance Minister Gordon should be fired "because I don't know what we'd do without the mistakes he has made."

Leading off the third day of opposition attack on the tax announced in the June 13 budget, Mr. Diefenbaker said his Progressive Conservatives intend to continue talking about it and to vote against it.

The Conservatives would propose a amendments to the budget's sales tax legislation and force a vote on the bill itself.

"quiet and tolerant speech," said it showed that Mr. Diefenbaker's "well-known talents for Continued on Page 2

Water Does Trick

CHITTENANGO, N.Y. (AP)—Paul Demario was annoyed by the disappearance of gasoline from the 236-gallon tank on his farm near here so he filled it with water.

Early Thursday Demario saw a car stalled 150 yards from the tank.

Police arrested Hadlin Wallis, 18, of Chittenango, and charged him with petty larceny after, they said, they found 15 gallons of water in the car's gas tank.

After Next Week Who Will Own

the BCE?

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Who will own the B.C. Electric after next week?

That is the $171,833,052 question which is keeping B.C. cabinet ministers awake nights.

It is a question which weighs heavily in Premier Bennett's decision not to go to Ottawa for a federal-provincial conference this week.

It is also a question which has escaped some of the urgency to launch new high-level B.C.-Washington negotiations over Columbia River power sales to the U.S.

Premier Bennett doesn't want to be very far away from the fold when the answer is supplied.

The anxiously-awaited judgment on B.C. Electric expropriation comes with Chief Justice Sherwood Lord of B.C.'s Supreme Court.

What decisions he has reached as a result of the marathon proceedings over which he presided from May 1, 1962, to Feb.

25, 1963 are known only to him and his personal staff.

But because of his elevation to the post of Chief Justice of British Columbia, effective Aug. 1, he has only six days of grace before he must hand down his judgment—after that, so the official thinking goes, he loses Supreme Court jurisdiction.

His judgment will stem from a case which many believe was the most complex of any in the history of Canadian law and one of the costliest.

Unofficial estimates place the cost of the case so far at nearly $1,000,000.

Official transcript of the proceedings fills 146 volumes containing 4,500,000 words.
